NEW YEAR

By Rose Campbell Starr

A new year opens wide its gate today.
Away with vain regrets for wasted years,
For all the past is buried and its tears
Are dry and smiles await me on the way.

New hopes, new love, new courage that has sent
Will to be strong, to climb the mountain high,
To stand upon its summit, there to sigh
Not for what might have been, but with content.

I shall go bravely, as the stalwart climb,
Cast off these shackles that have bound me fast,
Climb onward, though each step may seem my last,
I shall prevail, as Israel in old time.

A glad year, for I feel it in my soul,
New life, new friends, new faith the new year brings,
For I am fate—my fate—and all the things
I've willed are written for me on the scroll.

Albert Einstein

A symbolical interpretation of the MAN and his WORK.

by DANE RUDHYAR

General remarks on chart interpretation

I offer the following interpretation of the chart of this great scientist and thinker, Einstein, as an illustration of some of the ideas which I have developed in several articles printed in the last issues of "American Astrology." The interpretation does not aim at completeness and will emphasize astrological factors which do not figure much in ordinary astrological interpretation, or which are given a meaning which, I believe, is not of the highest order.

The birth-time has been tentatively rectified and seems correct; but I have not been able to find certain biographical data which would insure, relatively at least, strict accuracy. However the reader will see, when we study the symbols of the degrees of the chart's angles, that they click quite remarkably. This is not definite proof of accuracy, but at least it means a proper focalization of consciousness on the part of the interpreter. The chart, in other words, is highly significant in terms of Einstein's known work and destiny. To that extent, at any rate, it is true; truth being, in matters of individual selfhood and essential destiny, always subordinated to significance. These matters of individual selfhood and essential destiny are those which, as we saw in previous articles, are symbolized by the four angles of the chart. These angles, in turn, depend on the exact time of birth; whereas the zodiacal positions of the planets are usually changed only to some slight degree by uncertainty of birth-time—within the limits of a few hours.

A birth-chart which, for one reason or another, cannot be checked and rectified to the actual minute of birth—or, in other words, in which the degrees of the angles are uncertain—cannot give us an accurate picture of the real individual selfhood of the native. We can only approximate such a picture; we cannot reach the actual core of this selfhood—for such is revealed fundamentally in the symbolical significance of the angular degrees. The zodiacal signs on the angles (and on all other cusps) will tell us about the substance of the individual selfhood; but the degree-symbols alone can really lead us to the mystery of the significance of this individual selfhood.

The planetary pattern as a whole refers to the evolving "personality" of the native, and that "personality" is largely the result of collective forces, physiological and psychological; it depends therefore on "the times" in general, more than on the exact "time" or moment of the birth. This explains why people born the same day can be so different as far as their true individuality is concerned—provided they are, in any real sense of the term, individuals. It is this unknown and to some extent unknowable relative development of the individual and the collective factors in any person, which explains for instance why twins can be so different as individuals. One of the twins may show a strong emphasis of the individual factors; the other, of the collective factors. As a result the same planetary pattern will indicate two different qualities of physio-psychological functioning, even though the structures of the functions are nearly the same.

By combining the planetary pattern as such, and the zodiacal substance of the cusps of houses, one is shown the way in which the various functions (modes of activity) of the personality operate in terms of the individual selfhood and individual destiny (life-work, dharma) of the native. The average person wants to know mostly about his or her personality or outer character. The life of every-day activity, the changing cycles of such an activity, the easy or hard periods ahead, happiness or unhappiness, success or failure—all these things completely absorb his or her attention.

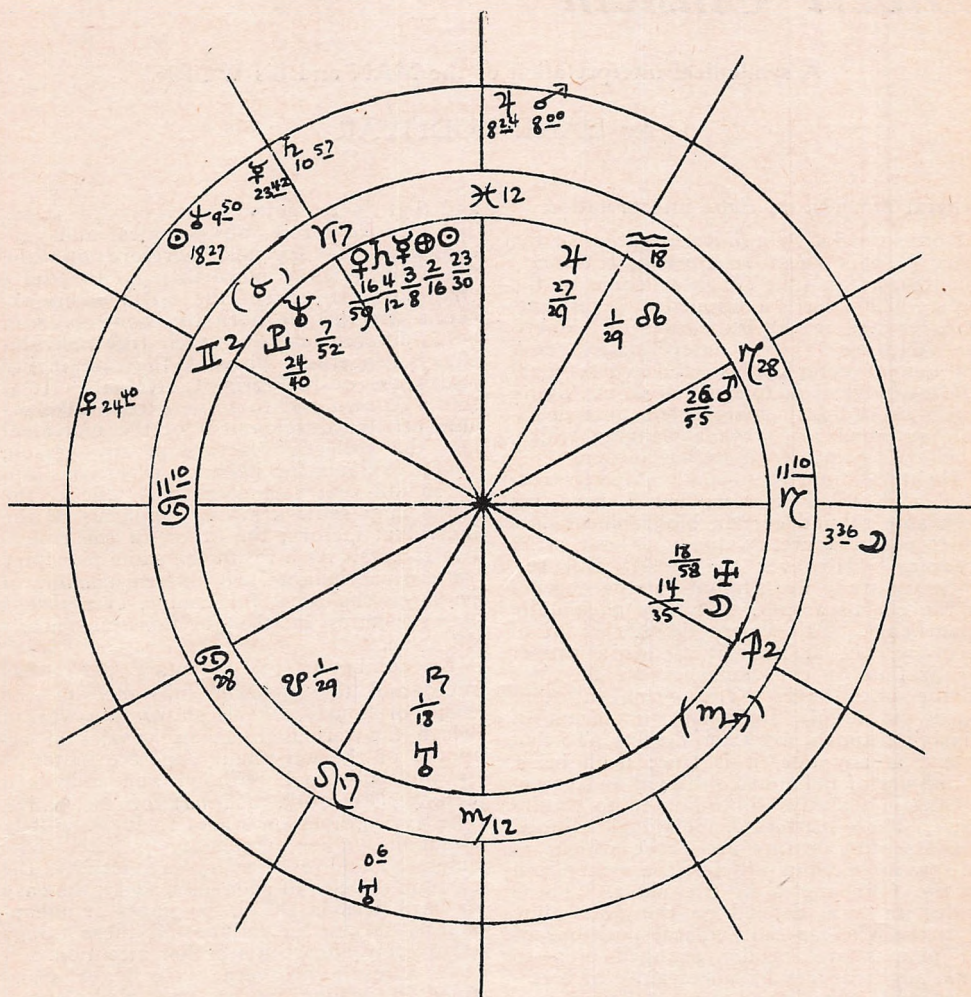

As a result the average astrologer is justified in dealing mostly with the planets:

- (1) With their zodiacal position—the substance of the personal activity represented by each planet.

- (2) With their relative positions—that is, with the "aspects" they make to each other; this referring to the "form" of the personality as a whole, i.e., to the outer "character" of the native.

- (3) With their separate house positions—which refer to the way in which each type of personal activity or its social equivalent fits in the general destiny of the native.

In this last department I italicized the word "separate," for the problem of general form of the planetary pattern is ordinarily very little studied. As far as I know, this problem is discussed philosophically as a whole (though I would suggest alternate solutions to some of the points raised) only in Marc Jones' course "Professional Astrology." Other authors merely scratch the surface of the subject and fail apparently to see the significance thereof; though here and there very valuable points are raised (as for instance what is said in Alice Bailey's "Treatise on White Magic" p. 439).

Planets in outer circle are progressed for early April 1935 -

"Form" is really the spiritual element; if one takes the term in its true abstract meaning. The form constituted by the zodiacal positions of all the planets, the form constituted by the zodiacal positions of all the cusps, the form established by the relation between these two basic forms—these three forms represent one aspect of the native's essential being (collective, individual, and operative). The other aspect is given by the element of significance, which is to be derived from the symbols of the degrees of planets and cusps.

Form and significance are the two poles of the essential being of every man. Activity stands for the outer being, the ever-changing personality—not as a unified whole, but as a complex of conflicting elements and energies. I might add here that the planetary pattern at birth gives one the image of the personality as it becomes integrated into a stable spiritual organism. It shows the permanent "form of the completed Soul," of the "Temple of Solomon" which it is the privilege of every human being to build throughout his life. On the other hand, "progressions" the impermanent ever-changing flux of psycho-physiological energies which are what constitute the "outer man" and his daily show of moods, temper, and desires.

Thus the more spiritually strong and self-established the native, the more his natal chart will "work," and the less his progressions will be important. The more fluctuating, vacillating, without purpose or sense of individual selfhood the native, the more his progressions will tend to blur and obliterate the "form" and significance of his natal chart and of his basic destiny.

It is said in occult or mystical books that man should "become what he is." In an average person's life, the "become" is so dominant as to becloud the "is." The personality ceaselessly "becomes" and never "is." But in the person in whom the power of integration (essentially, the Sun) is asserting itself at once strongly, the "is" also asserts itself and the "becomes" is merely a matter of perfecting what "was, is and ever shall be."

These general remarks are very important and should, I believe, always be kept in mind. They should help to disprove the idea that in the case of "spiritual persons" astrology does not work. The truth is that with strongly individuated persons progressions often do not work, but I have yet to see any "spiritual person" whose natal chart did not click. It is necessary however to add that every astrological factor can be interpreted at three levels of being and consciousness. This applies especially to the symbols of the degrees, but also to the meaning of houses, signs, planets etc. Another most important point, rarely taken into consideration!

Einstein's birth-chart

By studying the zodiacal positions of the planets, we can deduce the substance of the physio-psychological functions of the man's "personality": his manifest nature and character. Referring to previous articles, we know that we may speak of planets of the conscious (Saturn, Moon, Mars, Venus and Mercury) and planets of the unconscious (Uranus, Neptune, Pluto)—the Sun being a symbol of the very life-force, which ever attempts to integrate and vivify. We can thus note that the functions of a man's total being operate according to certain basic universal patterns (or modalities) symbolized by the signs of the zodiac; in other words, we can study the positions of the planets, in the signs of the zodiac.

We shall not work this out in detail, as it is a matter of common astrological practice. We will point out, however, as an illustration, the fact that a grouping of three planets of the conscious (Mercury, Saturn, Venus) are found in Aries. This means that the physio-psychological functions represented by these planets operate on a basis of "creative impulsion"—which is the characteristic of Aries. As moreover these planets are placed in the Tenth House, which rules over thinking (psychologically speaking), we can quickly deduce that this "creative impulsion" refers to mental rather than physiological activity. To this we would add the fact that the Part of Fortune, Mercury and Saturn are in close conjunction. The mind is deep, and strongly formal. We could expect this configuration in the chart of the man who conceived the universe to be finite, and opposed the older idea of a universe extending indefinitely in all directions. Saturn is the boundary-maker. Here, it introverts the mind and the sense of happiness or personal ease of functioning (Part of Fortune). It may even lead to a certain amount of pessimism or mental bitterness, as well as a strong aloofness from human contacts—especially as Saturn rules the house of human relationship (VIIth.).

Venus in Aries shows that the substance of consciousness and of all affective reactions to experience is of the nature of "creative impulsion." The emotional nature throws itself eagerly, creatively, impulsively into the new channels which experiences suggest.

This analysis referred mostly to the substance of the functions. The way they are conditioned by relationship to other functions will be indicated by the aspects the planets make between each other. For instance Venus here is square Mars and trine the Moon. The former aspect generates emotional tensions; the outgoing impulses toward (Mars), and the final summing up of (Venus), experiences are somewhat tearing the consciousness of the native. This generates inner frictions, enthusiasms and antagonisms which must be disturbing. Yet it also generates creative power. We probably see, in this chart of Einstein, an instance of transmutation of a strong emotional nature into great creative mental power. Or, in another sense, we may see that the intellectual formalism and critical sense of the mathematician is a sort of psychological compensation for a strong feeling-nature, whose emotions have great fire and conviction. Einstein's political and humanitarian activities are witness to the truth of such an interpretation.

We can go still deeper and into the realm of pure significance, by studying the symbols of the degrees within which the planets are located. The Mercury symbol (fourth degree of Aries) speaks of "Two lovers strolling along a secluded walk." This refers, at this level of consciousness, to the interior communion of soul and mind, of intuition and reason—in a condition of deep introversion. Such is then the pure significance of Einstein's intelligence, in which, quite evidently, reason and intuition are intimately and actively blended.

The Saturn symbol (fifth degree of Aries) is: "A white triangle with golden wings." This is a symbol of intense zeal and inward flight of consciousness. The consciousness is of an inner archetypal nature, rather than concrete and established in outer reality. It may be interesting to note that one of the greatest and most extraordinary Christian saints, St. Catherine of Sienna, had her Sun on that degree. She lived practically without food, the smallest amount of which caused her intense physical suffering—yet was amazingly active, a political power; sustained indeed by a type of vitality (Sun) which was super-earthly. Saturn, as the reader will remember from previous articles, refers to the ego-complex. Here then we find the deeper meaning of Einstein's individuality, of his childlike, eager, wondering, and (in a new sense) truly mystic countenance.

The symbol of the Sun's degree is eminently significant: "A small island in the midst of the boundless ocean; its happy inhabitants have created a world all of their own." What could be more significant of Einstein's Self, that is, of the Power within him that integrates his life and his destiny? Even the term "island universe" has been connected with the new Einsteinian cosmogony. Einstein has indeed created "a world all of his own" of which he is, in a sense at least, a "happy inhabitant." The symbol even depicts the essence of his cosmic conceptions. As the Sun is his "most elevated planet," dominating the house of professional and public activity,—and, psychologically, the realm of thinking,—we can readily see how revealing the symbol is.

We must add at once that, the above does not mean that every person born March 14 (or rather with the Sun in the twenty-fourth degree of Pisces) will be an Einstein, or a great physicist!!! The symbol would be as true or significant of thousands of persons with utterly different types of endowment and situation in life. But in the case of men who themselves are truly significant beings the symbols are most exactly revealing; for here as everywhere, like answers like, and significance answers significance.

The Moon: "The ground-hog comes out of his hole looking for its shadow to decide whether spring has come." Symbol of keen divination and prophetic understanding. The present is sacrificed for the sake of the future. Here, the Moon rules the two first houses. It is thus the ruler of the chart—the dominating power of the psyche. Einstein is undoubtedly a man of deep feelings, in the real sense of the term. He feels ahead, as a prophet; reflecting the future.

Mars: "A group of anchorites on a pilgrimage, midway between the world and the illumined summits." Mars represents the power of initiating action, the power of impulsion and desire. The symbol shows a balance in response to inner and outer values; and in fact a double incentive to action. This is characteristic of Einstein, pure abstract thinker and champion of social human causes.

Neptune: "A sleigh speeds upon the ground, which snow has not yet touched." Neptune is the symbol of the action of the collective upon the individual. One of the most amazing things in contemporary thought is the fact that an abstract, remote and well-nigh incomprehensible theory as that of relativity brought to its author swift and unchallenged world-fame. The Neptune symbol adequately indicates that activity, here, is not dependent upon circumstances; but manifests ahead of its natural season. In other words society gave to Einstein an unseasonal and abnormal sustenance.

The same significance can be found in the symbols of such abstract points as the Part of Fortune and what we called "Part of Imaging" (cf. American Astrology September 1934). The former is symbolized as follows:

"A man's profile, in relief as in a cameo. It suggests the outline of his country."

This refers to participation of the individual in a larger scheme of society or life.

The Part of Fortune is the point of ease of personal functioning, thus of happiness. It indicates also the dharma (life-task) of the man as a racial atavistic expression. Here, thus, Einstein is shown to be in his personality the hypostasis, or avatar, of his race or country. But, because of the conjunction of this Part of Fortune with Saturn there are trials and tests in relation to this racial inheritance. This configuration seems often to indicate exile—materially or spiritually speaking—especially if found in the Tenth House.

The symbol of the Part of Imaging is: "Pelicans, disturbed by explorers, have moved to places unknown." This refers to an inward re-emphasis of foundations, to a basic re-orientation of life. This Part symbolizes the outer form of the creative genius of the evolved individual. Undoubtedly Einstein's genius produced a re-orientation of modern thought.

These symbols can obviously be interpreted in various ways and each interpretation, with its various shades of meaning, might cover a full page. With such symbols we deal with the same type of things as with the symbols of the Yi-king, the great textbook of Chinese philosophy, mysticism, science—and also divination. Each symbol opens immense vistas of consciousness, if grasped in the proper mental or intuitional attitude. The old Chinese symbols are based on simple natural scenes, because they were the products of a simple agricultural civilization. The Sabian symbols, which we quote, are meant for our complex and intricate modern civilization; and thus the 360 picture-dramas which they reveal have to be interpreted by a consciousness well aware of the psychological-social intricacies of modern living.

These remarks may be even more important as we come to the interpretation of the symbols of the four angles of the chart, which deal with the four-fold individual being and destiny of the native: his being

- (1) as pure essential being and destiny—Ascendant
- (2) as an individual Soul asserting itself in feelings—Nadir
- (3) as a personality facing the outer world—Descendant
- (4) as a thinker and participant in the world's destiny—Mid-Heaven.

Ascendant symbol:

"A Chinese woman is nursing a baby, around whom is the halo of a divine incarnation."

The meaning is clear, save for the woman being Chinese. This refers presumably to a special relationship between China and our planet Earth as a whole. Theosophists will say that we are in the "fourth round" and China is the seed-expression of the "fourth root-race": that "four" is the number of the concrete intellect, of form, harmony, beauty, music, etc. The human personality is the matrix, or nurse, of the divine incarnation.

Some readers may feel in Einstein a "something" which seems to appertain him to old Chinese traditional thought, and the spiritual-metaphysical implications of the general theory of relativity are not far from the essence of the ideal of Tao. Gravitation involves a most European concept of effort and striving; whereas Einsteinian concepts point to a universe in which everything moves along the path of greatest ease and relative effortlessness: the ideal of action according to the essence of Tao.

This Ascendant symbol is enhanced by the Uranus symbol: "A large white cross stands alone on the top of a hill";—which also speaks of incarnation, individual selfhood and, if one wishes to be literal (a "dangerous procedure!"), of the four dimensions! The dependable meaning is always that of new birth, pioneering, a new creative departure, etc.

Nadir symbol: "A man snatches away the veil of Isis." This again needs very little interpretation. Einstein's feelings are those of a discoverer, of an idealist who longs to see the hidden reality beneath the veil. He is a great humanitarian; that is, one who feels for Man underneath all little and disturbing men.

Descendant symbol: "A student of nature lectures to a group of pupils." What could be more appropriate of Einstein's nature of relationship? Whether as a scientist, or as leader in humanitarian causes, or as representative of the Jewish race—he seems always to teach others what nature, physical or human, is or ought to be. Daring in his feelings, he appears thus studious and intellectual in his sensations and human contacts. But the presence of Mars in the Seventh House indicates also a certain amount of aggressiveness and impetuosity with regard to those contacts which arouse the emotions.

Mid-Heaven symbol: "Candidates to initiation are being examined by the assembled lodge." Here we have a symbol of the best of the past marshalled for the scrutiny of the new. The new may join the ranks of this ever-growing elite which is the glory of the past; but it does that by complying with regulations which have proven their value for ages. Likewise Einstein's thinking and professional achievements (Mid-Heaven) have been the result of a thorough scrutiny of new intuitions on the basis of the inherited treasures of our Western scientific culture. Here is no revolutionist, but one who adds the power and significance of the new to the old, while complying with the recognized tradition embodied in the "Lodge."

 And cabbages and kings.' "

ALL ABOUT ME

Dear Mr. Clancy:

Poor you! Here you serve this thought-starved world a most delectable morsel of wisdom (Your Christian Science)—and wham! Blasphemy! Maybe you're working out your Karma as you go along, eh? (That one was below the belt—O.K., I can take it too.)

Let me take this opportunity to express my appreciation of your work, "American Astrology." It is rich and human and an actual companion to a soul directed to a coldly practical environment, where Astrology, etc., is bunk.

Blessings on thee.

Truly,

TAURUS.

P.S.—Won't you publish your birthdate?

Now that you mention it, someone else has asked for that birthdate so here it is: June 29, 1897 A. B. T. 4:15:09 p. m. T. L. T., Toronto, Canada—(the letters "A. B. T." mean Accepted Birth Time—cagey)—mother born February 29, 1868, Trenton, Ont. (Hour not known). Father born April 9, 1856 same place. Separated from parents in infancy, adopted age of four (August 21, 1901) by a couple who though complete strangers and in no way related to me had nevertheless a strange astrological relationship by reason of their birthdates being almost the same as those of my own parents. Foster mother born February 29, 1868 (Just five minutes past midnight near Toronto, Can.)—foster father born November 10, 1856 near Toronto. Parents by adoption both living, but own mother died October 31, 1917, father died December, 1931. Furthermore, just two weeks after my mother died—here wait a minute—what am I doing? Writing an autobiography—not yet—but that was quite a curious coincidence and have just been waiting for an opportunity to tell you about it.

Incidentally about that hour—it is something like Rasputin's birthdate, everybody knows it, but no one can prove it—aren't we all? It may be said, however, that the above has at least a logical basis, but if you prefer 8:40 a. m. T. L. T. Toronto, Canada you can have that too. Can't say that I personally prefer either, both check well with events. Fact is I look like a Scorpion, but have the soul of a Leo—with all the nobility, generosity, dignity and—of that noble creature.

ASTROLOGY

Question: Will you please tell me what configuration in a chart is indicative of ability along astrological lines?

Answer: We determine vocational tendencies not from the aspects, but almost entirely from degree areas.

27° Leo—Aquarius and 11° Virgo—Pisces are given by Carter as the degrees of Astrology. Therefore your Mars 24/16 Leo would be the key to your interest in Astrology and a definite indication of ability along this line. The specific direction and quality of your Astrological work will partake of the nature of the planet that makes the contact—occupies the Astrological degree. It may interest you to know that my Mars is posited 24/40 Leo and it is a fact that Astrology is the only study that held my interest, though I made abortive attempts in various directions before entering this work seriously fifteen years ago.

BIRTHSIGNS

Question: Your article, page 19, November issue, "Calendar" interested me so much that I decided to write you for a few lines regarding my own birthdate or sign.

I was born in Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 22, about 4:10 a.m., 1871. I understand that the Sun was then about 4 hours in Capricorn. What I wish to have cleared up is, Am I to take Capricorn daily indications in your magazine as my guide, or do I partake of the Sagittarian sign the Sun just has passed through?

Answer: In 1871 the Sun entered Capricorn, 6:06 a. m. G. M. T. December 22nd. The true local time for Memphis, Tenn., was then 0:06 a. m.

At the time of your birth, 4:10 a. m. the Sun was just 11 minutes in the sign Capricorn.

I would judge from this that you are definitely marked with the Capricorn characteristics. However, with regard to transiting influences to the Sun there is another factor that must be considered. The orb of influence is much wider approaching than it is separating and this orb of influence for an approaching aspect from a transiting planet would in your case extend back as far as the 22nd degree of Sagittarius, hence you will find that with regard to "Timing" at least, the Sagittarian forecast will probably be in most instances more reliable than that for Capricorn.

DIRECTIONS

Dear Mr. Clancy:—

I have your letter of 6th, and with your stated editorial policy I have no quarrel whatever. I respect the individual's rights to believe as he wishes and of late years I have carried this so far as to become rather a poor "fighter" for astrology or even for my own ideas or findings. I much prefer to let others report on my work as every bit of success I have had has been due to the voluntary good word of others and not in the least by any tooting on my own account. With Saturn as ruler I prefer the quiet background and time, and lots of it, to weigh findings before advancing them—it is so hard to kill an error once it is circulated in ink.

I get just as much "fun" out of exploding any theory of my own as of others and I do not care a rap whether additional research lands me deeper into astrology or wholly out of it—Truth is just as good under any other label than astrology, if it leads that way; but so far I cannot find anything else that gives CORRELATED meaning to the other sciences, so I do not expect astrology can lose anything by being examined with that critical slant which, as you say "holds no brief for even one's own ideas." In fact the little I know about it after 31 years' research is wholly due to approaching it objectively without belief and abiding by what I cannot break down through the test of time.

Working by elimination I have evolved and exploded a good many hundreds of theories on each phase of astrology investigated. What is left after finding out what WON'T work is my only approach to the truth. The only sorry business about "try everything" is that it involves so much duplication of effort by separate investigators. But that seems to be the history of both discovery and invention.

My object in writing you is not in the thought that the future of astrology depends on acceptance of any findings of mine—I hold "there are no indispensable individuals." I do not expect my findings to be "believed," for "believers" as such have done and can do little for astrology. I DOUBT IF ANYONE STARTING WITH A BELIEF EVER FINDS MUCH TRUTH.

There are two more texts badly needed to round off mathematical procedure in astrology—one on rectifying and one on directing. For in these two problems all texts extant are very much in error on several counts. Without these corrected expositions a great many have come to believe that rectification is impossible and that directions do not click "on time." But since 1914 I have used a corrected (in the light of astronomy) measure of both secondary and primary directions that will rectify any chart in time agreement with a long list of events without departing radically from the witnessed time of a birth, and which when once the chart is so rectified will call the time of directions to the week of life year in and out by yielding directions consistent with the events and planetary natures without any such subterfuge as Pearce (and other Ptolemy followers) indulge in—such as his attribution of Edward VIII broken knee cap showing no direction to the actual natal cause (Saturn in Capricorn square to Moon).

Without these revised directional facts (beyond the scope of THE EARTH IN THE HEAVENS) it is very easy to miss much in making a test of that text. This should be clear when I say that every text on primary directing goes wrong as much as 7 years in timing SOME of the direction. This because their old-time formulas were evolved before the Copernican facts were known. The errors are due to the old false assumption that the planets move around a stationary earth. Many think it makes no difference in directions whether the Ptolemy cosmology or that of Copernicus is true. But it makes such a whale of a difference that both primary and secondary directing are in a good deal of disrepute in this country because they do not click by the text rules for calculating them. As a result we have the champions of "transit astrology" and a flood of predictions only one in hundreds of which ever are fulfilled. This keeps astrology the joke of scientists.

Now you know very well that any works radically revising both primary and secondary directing must run so foul of the "textbook interests" that such works would have to be published at a great loss for years to come. That loss I cannot take. Consequently users of THE EARTH IN THE HEAVENS have to limp along without these additional works that would greatly clarify its further use. And because there are in use all sorts of erroneous measures of directing, it is quite easy to use any of them with my Greenwich base and so hastily conclude it needs change to suit those faulty systems of directing. Students should know this if they are to use my text with more satisfactory results.

I do not mean that the unpublished facts about directing post date the publication of the EARTH IN THE HEAVENS, more that their publication would, in any way, change that text. I mean the same measures but partially referred to in that work have amplified application to nativities and they so clear up the muddle of directing that anyone once using them in rectifying and directing and seeing how consistent directions click "one time" in every horoscope, would be "sold" on sticking to the BL directions as given in that text. I may add, I have for 20 years been directing ALL cusps and in that time I have found that within their respective fields of meaning the direction of the supposedly "lesser Cusps" are just as important as those of the Meridian and horizon—and they occur "on time," when correctly computed.

In the past three months I have turned to an attempt to adapt the trigonometry of astronomy and engineers to meet certain special calculations met with only in these correctives in Astrology. In this considerable progress has been made. It seems to me a necessity before correct directions can be taught with any hope students will apply the correct methods; for they are very tedious to perform by the heretofore too limited trigonometry equations developed for astrological use. If new and time-saving equations can be developed I will feel more justified in publishing the needed works on rectifying and directing. But, too, this all depends on the extent of the support and demand.

Anyhow, I think you have the right idea—that a magazine aiming to advance truth must be impersonal as to whence it comes and what label it shall wear in last analysis. Honest difference is no crime, and from the idly believing propagandists, Lord deliver us. An intelligent critic is preferable to a blind follower. I wrote you on the demands of those who have given my work long consideration but the whole "astrological cause" can never be more important than good-will—even if it be necessary to abandon astrology to its own stew in the interests of that good-will.

Very truly,

L. EDW. JOHNDRO.

GEOCENTRIC ASTROLOGY

My Dear Mr. Clancy:—

The article on Geodetic Equivalents in your last two issues raises a moot question as to who is right, Council, Johndro or Sepharial. I only know that in his book, the latter perfectly correlates the lunation of 1923 in 18 of Leo with the Japanese quake, it being set off two weeks later on September 1 when the moon polarized the nadir axis of the configuration. The mathematics are simply 5 signs of 30 degrees+120, add 18 for Leo, and you have the longitudinal meridian for the city of Tokio, 138°.

I am merely interested to know how Mr. Council would explain the touch off for the two Virginian eclipses only two degrees apart. I agree with him perfectly well that foresight is much more to be desired than hind sight and I would not take any issue with him if "after sight" were the means of arriving at the formula upon which foresight could be predicted.

Now allow me to quote you figures on both of these eclipses in Virgo and show you how they traversed widely different sections of the earth's crust and then ask how he would explain for quakes resulting therefrom in Greece and the United States from each eclipse, but more particularly how it was, that the 1886 eclipse struck the eastern seaboard and wrecked the town of Charleston, S. C., whereas the eclipse just two degrees away in Virgo 8 struck the western seaboard and Los Angeles in particular.

The 1886 eclipse began its "total" in 79.46 west long. 9.48 north very close to the Panama Canal and ended below the equator in 34 East long. 19 South on the island of Madagascar. It was central in the Atlantic Ocean off the east coast of Africa in 14/27 west long. 0.257 north on August 29, 0.58 G. M. T.

The 1932 eclipse began up near the Arctic Circle in Siberia in 109 East 79.56 north, traveled approximately across the Pole, down through Hudson Bay, New England and out into the Atlantic Ocean, ending 40.59 West, 28.27 north, both eclipses beginning at one place and ending at another place. It was central August 31, 20 h o 5 m at 78.55 west and 55.18 north. Neither of these eclipses passed over the point of devastation.

Can Mr. Council or Mr. Johndro allocate them to Charleston, S. C., and Los Angeles without using those localities as starting points? All figures were taken from the British Nautical Ephemeris for those particular years. Until we can reconcile the discrepancy in the zero point of the base line as between the three, predictions will lack scientific accuracy.

Very truly yours,

DAVID C. BROOKS,

HORARY ASTROLOGY

Quotations from a letter received recently

"I am interested in the query on Page 13, August issue, 1934 anent Horary Astrology. May I relate an experience or two which I had regarding this?

About 14 years ago, I had been advised that an old printer in San Francisco would do very good work for me. I visited his pre-Victorian type shop, found the picturesque old gentleman standing on a wooden box about 10 inches square, which he had used for a quarter century. He still set type by hand and had a very limited supply, which was distinctly detrimental to business enlargement. When I showed him a sketch of the type of business desired, he smiled and said I was in the right line of work. He then proceeded to give me a most accurate description of my father, mother, brother, husband—all of whom had passed on years ago. Told me all about myself, gave me the zodiacal sign for each individual, described my early life, my aspirations, told me just how long each one of these dear ones had lived. I was much astonished and said: "You must be very psychic." He replied, "Not at all, I simply noted the time you entered the shop and made my deductions; look back of you and you will find a chart with a clock which I always face, and which gives me data on any one opening the shop-door." This man was Robert Rembrandt Hill, son of the famous Thomas Hill who had painted "Driving the last Spike" which portrayed that other Hill, the railroad magnate, and various celebrities, of a great continental railroad. Thomas Hill's paintings are found in many great galleries, one of the most beautiful being in Crocker Museum in Sacramento, a picture of Yosemite Falls, so marvelously executed that one almost felt the cold spray of the falls.

Mr. Robert R. Hill had made this chart—he was quite inventive—and in the center was an ordinary alarm clock of cheap make. He gave me my rising sign, went into elaborate detail about events in my life and in the lives of the said relatives. He had never before heard of me or seen me. He said he made a specialty of answering questions by horary astrology, charging but fifty cents for about 200 words, gave me some circulars to distribute, and that he could accurately describe any one if a memorandum were sent him giving exact moment of receiving letter, a telephone message or wire. I tested him with great success and checked up absolutely on my own graphological deductions of various unknown writers, according to my own science of delineating character. His descriptions of the writers, or of those who telephoned me, were remarkable.

Some time later, I took to this shop Florence Gloria Crawford, a well-known metaphysical teacher, healer and lecturer. She, too, wished some circulars printed. When we entered the shop, Mr. Hill said "Well you WOULD have to go on your own, what a miserably unhappy married life you have had. Your son is not a comfort to you either, and you are constantly meeting heavy tests of your courage and faith." Then he gave her her birthday and sign, also that of her husband and son, and laid her life bare so that she was wondering what "manner of man this might be."

Many of my clients used the fifty cent readings successfully in their business problems. Mr. Hill would predict just how acquiescence with a proposed plan would result, give advice regarding probity of the writer—or vice versa.

He was a Sagittarian, a financial failure. I do not know his rising sign, but he was of that moon-faced type, soft, a tall man, with mushy mouth, kindly eyes, sanguine complexion. After his famous father's death, Robert Hill exhibited many of the paintings and tried to sell them, but received only a few thousand dollars. Now they are conceded to be of great value and a single painting has been known to sell for $35,000.

I know so little of astrology, though greatly interested in the science, that it would sound presumptuous for me to enlarge on this story in any way, but thought you might find an item of interest in it. Mr. Hill passed on some years ago, of heart disease. He was well educated, for a time taught French and Spanish, and gave private lessons in Astrology. His failing was giving long-delayed horoscopes—people wearied of the waiting and could not recommend him, though the work was so conscientiously done. The Shorter horary outlines were sent out promptly all hand written. He always "crabbed" about how people wasted his time in the shop and failed to pay for the (gratis) information, yet one just could not break away from the old man, who was garrulous and much interested in research work. He called himself a "Rosicrucian Theosophist" which was strange enough. I have tried to gain headway many times when pressing engagements demanded a short interview on business matters with Mr. Hill, and have stood with hand on doorknob trying to break away—without avail. He loved to commiserate himself, and yet he refused to permit a customer to leave in a hurry. It is no wonder that both printing and astrology failed to bring him the returns he deserved, since he was a conscientious workman who charged very low prices. In his shop one found samples of cards and circulars printed for hundreds of notables. His wife never knew when he'd come home to dinner—he worked late and toiled even half days on Sundays, besides doing home-work in astrology. One always found a loaf of white bread at his shop, part of which he ate—the other part he took home as he loved this special brand of staff of life. A smelly little oil-stove furnished an underpinning for a dilapidated tea-kettle—and bread and tea beguiled his hours. I know he had clients as far away as India and Africa, who relied on his horary astrology.

You say a very high order of intuitive power would be required for setting up a reliable forecast—and perhaps the childlike, naive, spiritualized Robert Hill had it.

But anyway, nobody could make me believe "there's nothing to it." I've been convinced through many proofs of the faith this old gentleman had in horary astrology.

RUBY F. REMONT

Ed. Note:—We strongly suspect that "Big Chief Eagle Eye" or one of his pals had something to do with those readings.—Here's another one who thinks Horary Astrology is O. K.—So do I—you know I'm the most misunderstood person—.

Dear Mr. Clancy:

I notice much talk, pro and con about Horary Astrology. As I have found much help and truth in this branch of Astrological study I wish to say a few things for it.

One sentence in the August number that "one may find valuable clues in Horary charts, which if interpreted in the light of a radical figure may be of much assistance." I would change this and say that a radical chart can be read in much greater detail if interpreted according to the RULES of Horary Astrology, especially if the significance of houses as given in Raphaels' Book on Horary is followed and their subsequent rules. You may be surprised what you may glean from this source of knowledge.

Another sentence, "I believe that a very high degree of intuitive power is required." This is distinctly advised in "The Doctrine of Horary Astrology" by the Church of Light. They say rules should be followed. In proving by deductions, rules and a thorough knowledge of planets and houses and what each indicates and rules, have been the essential requisites. In one case, I even found the color and description and place of a lost article. I find the most important thing is to understand the question so as to answer it according to the correct house. If this is done much correct information is obtainable.

And even though it requires intuition—that is only one of the benefits that Astrology gives its students—for we gain intuition through correct tuition.

LUCK

Question: Re your article Luck, I do not agree with you and will give you an example—born August 26, 1889—6.8 p. m., Johnstown, Pa. Jupiter is very strong in every way except square to Mercury, but the noted English Astrologer makes light of that—good aspects—in its own sign and in the 10th house—Neptune is my worst planet—am I unlucky? I am not—infancy and may be reared with difficulty, but an approaching time of Mars to Saturn tells us that after the age of puberty (provided the child lives that long) there may come new life and the development of a strong physique may be expected. However, there would still remain a liability to accident and injury through falls.

REINCARNATION

Dear Sir:

For a year I have taken your magazine, and bought many copies for others, and now to my chagrin I read your view on Karma and Reincarnation in answer to a question asked in November's issue. Indeed you do need to study a lot and you have a lot to learn. So you do not believe that we necessarily need to live on the planet "Earth" again? May I ask you this one question: If you planted some nasturtium seeds in your back yard, would they sprout and grow in China? Of course not, you will say. All right, then, why should we not come back to earth to reap the seeds we have sown in former lives right here where they were sown? As to Karma (or as you spell it, Karma), that is a pitiful answer to give to one seeking for light, and clearly indicates that you do not understand the true meaning of the Sanskrit word "Karma," which means ACTION, pure and simple. Only a very ignorant person would believe that Karma was something you accepted listlessly. Karma is constant, for you are your own Karma. If you are just sit by and say, "Oh, I must bear it, it is an old Karma Debt," you are a fool, for everything good or bad that happens is your opportunity to prove your strength of character and ability to rise out of it. Laugh at anything you wish, and sneer (probably) at me for trying to set such an important person as you right, but PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE when hungry souls ask for bread, don't give them a stone.

Yours very truly, mind that hemlock.

You know the interesting point about that letter is that the writer and myself are in complete agreement only she doesn't know it—just the old trick of words obscuring thought —too bad we can't get along without them.

The only phase of the Karma Theory that

I object to seriously is that which refers present obligations and problems to other lives

—past or future. I do not believe that Life is operated on a deferred payment plan. The credit system has already practically ruined civilization. Spiritually the result is certain to be equally disastrous.

Furthermore, I believe that the aid of Astrology we can properly interpret that cryptic symbol which we know as the physical world. Properly classify our experiences, and discover the divine plan in relation to the Self and having accomplished this we are in a position to tackle the problems of life at once and solve them—NOW—unhindered and unhampered by any past and without the necessity for recognizing any Karma debts that may have been carried over from a past life.

I am convinced that Karma Theory as originally evolved and promulgated by Buddha meant just that, but like every other theory of life it has been twisted and distorted out of all semblance to its original form and in-

I am noted for my good luck especially in games of was on August 26, 1889—also his position now? I believe you did say in one of your magazines, but I can't find it now. In games of chance, especially the horse races, I am very lucky. If Astrology is a science I believe Jupiter gives me this good luck—then, too, Venus in 5th house may have something to do with it. What do you sincerely think?

Since Neptune went into Virgo I am nervous, my writing will prove this. I have a sensation of not carrying—I can't overcome this.

About 20 years ago an Astrologer from Holland told me that I would be successful if I left my family and would locate South East. That I would never be successful if I remained with my family. Neptune in the third house has proved this more than once.

There were dozens of relatives, but I was selected to live with grandmother. I loved her but she was richer than I and yet I supported her—family was tent by the devout followers of the "Teacher."

The past dies when the present is born and when you outgrow the present it too shall cease to be.

If you find yourself in a situation or condition that is uncongenial or that you know is unworthy, you may do one of two things—either stay in it or move on and you will stay until you have had enough of it—and no ghost out of the past has the power to stop the free exercise of your "Will" in this respect. However, that takes courage—courage that is born of wisdom which is in turn born of experience. Perhaps those who are still unconvinced may say that this is just another way of saying you stay until your debt is paid—in abstract they do mean the same, but psychologically those two points of view are as far apart as the poles. One is the viewpoint of a "Free Soul"—who looks Nature straight in the face and says, "I AM your master," but the other is the viewpoint of one who goes creeping and cringing through life afraid to call his soul his own and tearfully imploring an unknown God to forgive him for he knows not what or with sweet resignation worthy of a better cause cheerfully accepts the kicks and cuffs of life, consoling himself with the reflection that he is thereby paying a debt of destiny,—what utter rot—it is positively immoral in some cases, because back of that sweet charity there is quite frequently the secret thought—"Some day my chance will come—this person who is treating me unjustly is piling up a karmic debt and some day I WILL COLLECT—" If that isn't revenge, you give me a name for it.

RESEARCH BUREAU

Question: How is the new Research Bureau coming along? Is this Bureau intended to be simply a clearing house of astrological data, OR is this Bureau intended to be the central point to which all opinions and theories will come, which in turn will become LAWS or discarded opinions and theories?

I hope it is to be the latter because it opens up a tremendously broad field.

As far back as I can remember I have believed in this theory.

"If all the problems of the World were brought to a central point and were analyzed by competent experts who were free of all ties, the problems would be solved."

Apply this theory to your Research Bureau and then you tell me what you think of the idea.

Answer: Your letter accurately expresses our plan. In the meantime give our statistical department a break—what are you trying to do, work us to death? Give us a hand, folks. We want data and lots of it, but also be sure to furnish the source of your information. Newspaper clippings (containing dates of events) are always welcome and don't neglect to state the name of the paper in which the article appeared and the date of issue.

ROOSEVELT

Dear Mr. Clancy:

I have a letter from Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of our President, giving the following data as to his birth. I think that it is of enough National Interest to Astrological Students that it may be worthy of consideration.

Born "about" (don't you hate that word?) 8:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, at their home, 2 miles south of Hyde Park and 4 miles north of Poughkeepsie, on January 30th, 1882.

This is 73° 53' 24.7" Longitude=4 hr. 55 Min. 33.65 Sec. west of Greenwich. The Longitudinal time correction is 48.55 Sec. The Geocentric Latitude is 41.5547° North=3' 29" north of Poughkeepsie.

The above with the exception of 3'—29" is from the Nautical Almanac. 3'—29" is Bowditch equivalent for 4 miles at 41¾ N.

He married on March 17, 1905, I am told it was at New York. Can you have someone who is accurate look through the N. Y. Newspaper files of that date and get the hour of the wedding? With Uranus as prominent as it was in his map the wedding is just as likely to have been 8:00 a.m. as at the regulation 8:00 p.m. If not at New York do you know where?

Or do you know the time he took off from Albany on July 2nd, 1932, when he started for Chicago? He flew over the American Airways, so I am told. I wrote them, but got no answer; or what time did he land, at Chicago, or at any intermediate point?

Assassination attempted at Miami, Fla., Feb. 15th, but as it did not even scare him that data is useless. Newspaper report was given that the shot was at 9:32 p.m. Hearst paper so data is questionable.

I want to get accurate data of some vitally important events so that I can rectify his chart. The 8:00 p.m. map as shown me by some, indicated defeat in November election and death about 6 or 8 times since, and he is still a very, very live corpse. 8:30 showed certainty of election, and inauguration, and even checks to the day of Jan 13th for the gold message.

So you know the birth place or hour of Mrs. F. D.? She was born Oct. 11, 1884, at New York I have heard.

L. C. W.

Answer: We do not know the hour of birth for Mrs. Roosevelt, but her mother, Mrs. Elliot Roosevelt was born March 17, 1864—you might try that.

President Roosevelt was married at the home of Mrs. Henry Parrish, 8 E. 76th St., New York City, on March 17, 1905. The bride was given away by her uncle, Theodore Roosevelt at 2:30 p.m.

Incidentally you might be interested in knowing that President Roosevelt's mother was born September 21, 1854.

Werner Janssen, the American conductor of New York Philharmonic Orchestra, was born in New York, June 1, 1899.

SAGITTARIUS

Reader's Comment: About the prominence of Sagittarius in all charts now coming to your office—haven't you Sagittarius on your "Key Cycle" (WYnn) Ascendant now? Every few months when my K. C. Ascendant changes, the type of people I deal with will change and be strongly marked by Sun or Ascendant with my K. C. Ascendant.

Answer: Natal Ascendant 24/45 Scorpio places Sagittarius on my K. C. Ascendant from September 1934 to February 1935 inclusive.

SOLAR HOUSES

Question: I note in the magazine you speak of solar houses, a term I am not used to. Is it used in any other way than with a Solar Chart? Have you any books on this particular subject? Will you kindly give me a list of books for sale on houses and etc.?

L. J. L.

Answer: This matter of Solar Houses—has already been dealt with in detail in several issues of American Astrology; we might refer you to page 13 of the August, 1934, issue.

SOLAR REVOLUTIONS

Question: I should like to ask what is thought of the Solar Revolution type of progressed horoscopes to bring the horoscope up to current year. I notice many Astrological books explain the Progressed horoscope—that is counting under the birth date forward as many years as desired—but ignore the Solar Revolution type. I have noticed that the Solar Revolution and the Progressed do not nearly agree as to what sign should go on the Ascendant. Which is considered the most accurate? I should certainly like to know.

M. M.

Answer: I prefer the Solar Revolution. The Directed Chart (Primary Direction) is based on an assumed birth hour which must be correct, otherwise your Progressed Ascendant will be unreliable—four minutes inaccuracy in the Birthtime will throw this chart out one year; obviously this is much less practical than is the Solar Revolution.

STAR MAP

Question: Will you kindly write an article in your magazine explaining how a star map could be used with your monthly map for progressions, or with the Ephemeris? I have read how some one's Neptune will be thus and so with the Sun; how do they do it?

Answer: We would suggest that you devote some time to the study of Astrology. The answer to this question could not be given briefly. You will find the Brotherhood of Light Lessons very instructive and easy to master. This is the best correspondence course of which we have any knowledge.

SUN SQUARE URANUS

Question: Will you please tell me in practical terms of every day life, and in easily understood facts that a layman can grasp without too much interpretation, astrologically or otherwise, in fact quite frankly, what, in a woman's chart, is the significance of having: "Sun square Uranus." What would this have a tendency to bring in the life of the woman?

Answer: We have become accustomed to accepting Sun square Uranus or Neptune in a woman's chart, as a reliable indication of freedom or unconventionality in the sexual relationship—this must of course be interpreted as implying also a purely social relation with the opposite sex and not merely the physical contact.

In the case of Neptune, the relationship we find to be more often mental, decidedly more aesthetic and may be classified as distinctly platonic in most instances, although this planet does occasionally incline to lower forms of intrigue and deception, that is most often difficult to detect.

In the case of Uranus, there is more of the element of adventure. It is more often physical in expression and there is less concealment—intrigue—in fact either of these aspects incline to affairs or common law unions out of or after marriage, but while the Neptune affair will usually be kept dark, the Uranian affair is quite likely to be carried on quite openly with the full knowledge of the partner.

In a man's chart we substitute the Moon for the Sun and consider the Moon in relation to Uranus or Neptune as having the same significance as above.

VULCAN

Each new edition of American Astrology is always a source of delight to the student of Astrology and the perusal of its pages is an adventure to which I look forward with anticipation each month. But this month (September) I was very disappointed to find no discussion whatever on the "Morro Castle" disaster. This and many other tragedies of less magnitude took place at a time when the aspects of the planets were unusually favorable. At a time when one expected the stock market to go up, it went down. The newspapers were filled with depressing news. That whole week beginning September 7 and ending September 11th, at least so far as aspects indicated should have been phenomenally pleasant. It made me impatient that my knowledge was so little as to make me incapable of speculating as to the causes of this contradictory state of affairs. Perhaps you will excuse me then if the remarks I have to make should in any way be lacking in logic or accurate information. I am only a beginner in the field of Astrology and there is still so much for me to learn.

In last month's issue you answered the inquiry of a correspondent regarding the hypothetical planet Vulcan, admitting that you were inclined to accept it as the Ruler of Virgo and explaining that it was always very close to the Sun. Not possessing the Ephemeris mentioned in that article, I do not know the exact position of Vulcan, but assume that there is a possibility of its being a few degrees behind the Sun as it proceeded through Virgo. Since the Sun was in conjunction with Neptune on September 5th, it seems possible that this planet Vulcan might have reached a conjunction with Neptune on September 7th or thereabouts. I know nothing whatever about Vulcan except what I have gathered from articles in your magazine. Notably from "Virgo the Virgin" in last month's issue and from a half-remembered knowledge of mythology but I would imagine that a conjunction of this planet would be of a violent enough nature to cause such tragedies as that of the "Morro Castle," also to cause an unexpected upset in the stock market and numerous other events of a less public nature, which took place around that time. Many of us "sensed" something strange and unusual in the air around that time—something we couldn't quite explain and something which the "Aspects" did not seem to explain.

It may be that you did not have any time to do any research regarding this incident before the recent edition of American Astrology went to press. But I do hope you are planning to mention it in your next issue. And if I have allowed my imagination to run riot a little in the speculation expressed above, I hope that I shall be excused on the grounds I have mentioned.

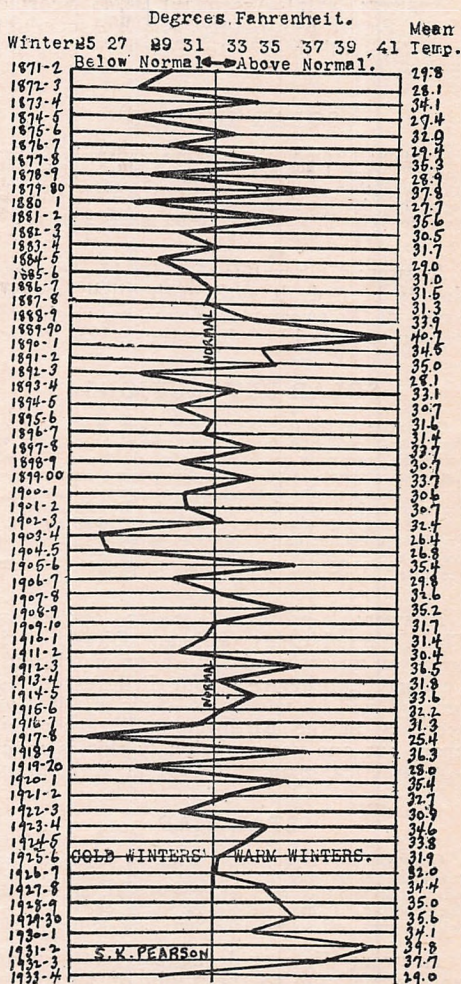

J. K.

Note: Thanks for the suggestion re: the "Morro Castle" may we call your attention to a short study of this event given on page 28 of our December issue. We might also refer you to our mention of Neptune's South Node.

WEATHER

The following temperature chart prepared by Samuel K. Pearson of Plainfield, N. J. and reprinted from New York Sun issue of November 24, 1934, gives us some valuable data as a basis for research.

Mean winter temperatures in New York for the past sixty-three years, showing by zigzag line the variability from year to year. Line through center indicates normal winter temperature.

Note:—If the above chart is a reliable guide—and we believe it is—then we are due for a relatively mild winter—about the same as that of 1914-15.

By the way, we didn't do so bad with our weather forecast for 1934. Quoting from page 17 of our January, 1934, issue: "We should have some delightful weather during November, 1934"—November 20, 1934, went on record as the warmest November 20th in the history of the Weather Bureau.

NEPTUNE IN VIRGO

Legal matters; philosophy and study, especially of occult and mystical matters; dealings with relatives and relatives-in-law; journeys; dreams and aspirations.

Neptune in the ninth house of your solar horoscope has been dealt with in a previous issue of American Astrology. This is a somewhat confusing mental influence, under which your mind may tend to be more dreamy and mystical, and less practical, than is good for your worldly interests; however, since this transit trines your natal Sun, it is on the whole a good influence, insofar as you will feel it at all, which you may not, for Neptune's influence is somewhat remote, and except under affliction you are not likely to notice his presence, except perhaps in a very comfortable feeling of elation and optimism that seems to well up from within you, intangibly. Do not allow this mysterious feeling of inner strength to obscure from you the mundane matters and necessities around you; on the other hand, by keeping to strictly practical things, you will find that this position increases your magnetism, gives you mental and physical vitality, and makes it possible for you frequently, and surprisingly, to arrive at the correct solution to problems by very gratifying mental shortcuts. Watch out, at the following times, for the more confusing of Neptune's influences: December 12-18, Neptune square Mercury, muddled thinking, secret matters annoying and confusing; avoid decisions, don't sign papers or enter agreements; February 10-14, Venus opposite Neptune, emotional confusion, perhaps some treachery or unreliability from relatives or those in whom you are emotionally interested; March 3-7, vision clouded, don't try to formulate new plans; March 26-31, deception, writings and reports unreliable; April 24-28, liable to health upset through too much good times; June 1-5, nervousness, low vitality, relax; October 4-12, employment difficulties, danger of disputes, lots of irritating small jobs, avoid nerves and upset to health; December 8-12, secret confusion, a private matter is disturbing.

URANUS

of Uranus in Aries in the fourth house of your horoscope has been given in a recent issue of American Astrology. January, February and March will see the end of this irritating seven-years effect, of which the last flare-up will come when the Sun, Venus, and Mercury square Uranus from your first house, January 4-20. This is a high strung emotional and mental period for you, and you should beware of upsets in your home, and in all personal matters; keep your temper, and avoid argument and bickering under this, for if you have gone thus far without a major upset from this Uranian transit, it would be a shame to undo the good now when it is practically over. After this flare-up of conflicting forces, the vibrations to Uranus during the remainder of January, February and March are very good, and you should be able under them to "put your house in order" in a literal as well as a figurative sense. You can now solve satisfactorily problems of long standing, which have been developing since the entry of Uranus into Aries, at the beginning of 1928, for now at his exit he meets the good stabilizing ray of Saturn, and your domestic difficulties should clear up under this, leaving the field clear for the entrance of Uranus into your fifth house, and the sign of Taurus, on March 28, 1935.

This is a very important transit in your life, and the question of whether it is a destructive or constructive force in your life, depends solely on whether you live on the negative or the positive side of this erratic, eccentric, highly original and creative planet. Uranus the planet of Individualism, is said to express himself best in the individual, personal houses: the first, the fifth, and the ninth: which houses represent Yourself, the sumtotal of your potentialities (the first): your inner, deepest desire and ambition (the fifth): and how this desire and ambition expresses itself in the world of action and affairs (the ninth). We have already seen that you are now working under the somewhat favorable ray of Neptune in the ninth (solar) house of your horoscope; and for this reason, it is possible that you will be able to make very happy and fortunate use of this transit of Uranus in your fifth house, which lasts for seven years. In order, however, to utilize the difficult vibrations of this great planet constructively, it is necessary to understand what effect he has on you in the fifth house—to know what to guard against, as well as what to seek, in his long stay there.

The fifth house, in addition to being the house of inner desire and True Ambition, is also the house of Desire in the other sense: it is the house of Emotion, Sentimental attachments, Romance, and Love affairs: and the least desirable of Uranus's influences here is his tendency to bring on emotional tension; eccentric, fickle, changeable, unreliable emotional loves and hates; with an accompanying leaning toward eccentricity and unconventionality in love, and so-called love affairs. Uranus, in his lower manifestation, is the born romantic, especially in the fifth house—the soldier of fortune type of love — the Casanovas of the world, here today and gone tomorrow; charming, plausible, seductive, and above all, fickle. Beware, under the transit of Uranus in your fifth, against a tendency to kick over the traces and run away in emotional matters: under Uranus, this is done under theegis of a lofty idealism, in the name of Freedom, Self-expression, and one knows not what of high-sounding irresponsibility. This is the negative expression of Uranus, the inversion of his true significance, of intellectual individualism, advanced and progressive thinking, and true creativeness and inventiveness. In the following of his negative side, all his great powers are concentrated in the bubbles of romance, intrigue, and romantic self-indulgence, and it is against this inclination to cut loose from tradition into a foundationless individualism, that you must beware under this transit of Uranus in your fifth solar house. This warning is doubly necessary because Uranus is at this time in the Venusian sign Taurus, and this combination tends to corrupt both the love-nature of Venus, and the independence of Uranus, into something which bears little relation either to love or to independence, but which is merely a harmful combination of the two into a selfish self-indulgence—and in the long run pretty unsatisfactory self-indulgence, at that. This position, in its least desirable manifestation is the very picture of the gallant but unreliable Don Juan, making frantic protestations of devotion one minute and nowhere to be found the next—or of the ineffectual Don Quixote, soberly tilting at windmills in his pathetic and ridiculous quest. It is against these inversions of the true Uranian spirit of independence and progress that you must beware, guarding at the same time against self-indulgent temperament, nervousness, and irritability, through all of which Uranus will injure you if you live on the negative side.

However, since this transit trines your natal Sun, there is excellent chance for you to live on the constructive side of Uranus, which tells quite another story. For Uranus in your fifth will quicken your mind and your vision, open up to you vistas of mental breadth that you perhaps have only vaguely imagined, strengthen and ennoble your mind as he brings to you the power to analyze large matters in advance. It was a Uranus-in-the-fifth type of vision that Tennyson described when he wrote:

"For I dipped into the future far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be. . ."

Uranus, in its fifth house, best manifestation, is not the selfish, sensual planet described above under the discussion of the negative expression. He is, on the contrary, preeminently the planet of advanced social-mindedness: the planet of selflessness, altruism, and enlightened self-consciousness, to the end that the world may be enlightened and made better. The social and economic forces developing now in the United States are under the ray of Uranus, and as he gets into Taurus, these forces will become better and better organized and directed. Because this transit falls in the fifth house of your solar horoscope, you may expect to understand the new and changing world around you with an intimate and personal understanding, to profit by it, and perhaps (because of the friendly ray to your Sun and Ascendant) to contribute to it in your own sphere of activity. Under the profoundly advanced intellectual stimulus of this influence, you will welcome new ideas, especially those that are aimed at a social change on a large scale; you will find yourself interested in progress, invention, economics, and politics. This is a surprising influence: you will see the world around you in a different light, and from a different angle than you have seen it before: an intensified, clear light, which makes this transit of Uranus a fascinating intellectual adventure.

Thus, under this influence, you should guard against its emotional, temperamental, erratic, self-indulgent side; and seek to cultivate its intellectual, progressive, mental side. In this connection it will be well for you to watch carefully the following dates, at which time the negative influence of Uranus will be strongest, and require the keenest vigilance. April 20-27, Sun and Mercury conjunction Uranus; there is some danger here of the erratic influence of Uranus, but this may turned to a good intellectual stimulus if you avoid romance and temperament. June 9-13, Venus square Uranus; this square involves your eighth and fifth houses, and therefore is quite an emotional aspect; beware also at this time of gambling, and the extravagant financial operation of a partner. July 25—August 1, similar to the above, only more highstrung, nervous and temperamental. August 2-10, Mercury square Uranus, Mars opposition Uranus, very explosive mental and emotional condition, tending to bring out all the most erratic and irresponsible vibrations of the Uranian ray; avoid quarrels, disputes, and above all, romance. November 10-14, Mercury opposition Uranus, unreliable friends, bad advice, danger of emotional bias to your judgment resulting in bad decisions. December 2-16, Mars square Uranus, Venus in opposition, dangerous financial period, hasty investments go wrong, extravagance; danger of too great expense through friends or sweethearts; high temper and emotionalism destructive.

SATURN

Till February 15, 1935, financial matters, liquid assets. This concludes the transit of Saturn in your solar second house, where he has made money matters difficult for a matter of about two years. In these last six weeks of his transit, he meets with good aspects, concluding (February 1-15) with the conjunctions of Mercury and Saturn, in sextile to Uranus; and this gives you (like the end of the Uranian influence in your fourth house) an opportunity to put your finances on a sound and conservative basis. This is a good time to make conservative purchases, of things you will use a long time, conservative investments—not speculations or gambles, but sound, income-yielding securities for the long pull. This is an auspicious wind-up to a restrictive financial period, and should find your finances sound, if less abundant than you might wish.

SATURN IN PISCES

Starting February 15, 1935

Relatives, writing, correspondence, short journeys, mental activities.

Saturn is in the third house of your solar horoscope for the next two and a half years. This is one of the two houses in which Saturn is said by many to be the complete benefic—the other being the ninth . . . that is, in expressing himself directly through the mind, Saturn produces fewer restrictions, limitations, and disappointments in the outer world, than from any of the other houses. Saturn is a planet of self-development; and as he expresses directly on the mind he tends to deepen and make more serious the mental processes, directly, without the interposition of the lessons which in other houses he imposes to drive home his point. Thus this transit of Saturn, though it does not directly produce a positive good, produces good negatively, in that Saturn is in a comparatively harmless position, where he strengthens your judgment, and allows the good of whatever else is going on in your horoscope to manifest itself to its best advantage. Coupled with the better side of the Uranian transit, this position of Saturn should give you a remarkable opportunity for mental and personal development. Neither one of these positions promises anything especial in the business and financial world, directly; nevertheless, your serious and thoughtful mental state, the progressive thinking which Uranus will bring you, and the devotion to duty that you may expect from Saturn, should have a very good effect on whatever you undertake to do, and enable you to impress your superiors with your sincerity, intelligence, and worth. In this way, this position of Saturn may be said to be a positive benefit, though it does not in itself involve what is known as luck. Still, all luck is merely the expression in the world of your internal powers, and anything that bolsters those powers may be said to be lucky, however indirectly it may operate. One of the best things about this Saturn position is the excellent conservative support it gives all during the year to Uranus, which should enable you to express the highest and most progressive form of the Uranian vibration, and to formulate clearly not only your ambitions, but also the method by which, in a worldly and tangible sense, they may be achieved. This is an excellent time for you, not so much to push your affairs with aggression in the business or professional world, but to get clearly in mind the scope and intention of your progress, obtain a clear image of your dream, and lay careful, well considered plans for its ultimate consummation. This is a year in which you may return a permanent and successful answer to the question: "What am I going to do about it?"—and you may be sure that whatever answer you give to this question now will be good for the long pull.

This transit of Saturn has the one ill effect of having a somewhat (though not excessively) gloomy effect on the mind; seriousness may tend to degenerate into depression, thoughtfulness into brooding—and both into nervousness, fear, and apprehension. You should avoid these, the negative manifestations of Saturn, in the same way that you avoid the previously discussed negative vibrations of Uranus. The times at which these will be especially noticeable are as follows: April 20-24, emotional depression, perhaps in connection with work, or overwork. May 10-16, worry, nervousness, details get on your mind; relax. May 28-June 4, fatigue, nervousness; avoid overwork, worry; guard health. July 17-21, emotional danger, don't think too much or too hard. August 17-23, same as preceding; don't worry; relax. September 18-30, Secret troubles cause difficulty; you are upset; avoid quarrels; guard health and nerves. November 22-29, same as foregoing; mental anxiety, worry, overwork, and danger to the health through these.

JUPITER IN SCORPIO

Hopes, wishes, aspirations, friends. This is a generally good position, tending to smooth your path this year, through the help of friends and associates, who will advance you and your interests. It is a very helpful position, its one danger being excess optimism, and a tendency to fly too high; however, your skeptical and cautious Saturnine nature should easily counteract this. Guard against excessive optimism especially at the following times: January 22-28; February 9-13 (financial schemes too glittering); May 1-12 (romantic notions of progress out of tune with reality—your reach is exceeding your grasp!); June 19-23 (don't mix business and pleasure); August 18-31 (too-dynamic schemes—hold them down to earth—a friend is over ambitious for you).

MARS IN LIBRA

December 12, 1934 to July 28, 1935

This is the most critical position in your nativity for this year, for Mars lingers for seven months in your solar tenth house, and provides a real danger to your credit and position in the world, through the likelihood that you will act at the wrong time with too great aggression, insufficient diplomacy, and excess of zeal. Remember in this connection the exuberant effect of Uranus in your fifth, and be warned against too hasty action in any field of activity, lest you bring about trouble in all. This will make superiors difficult to deal with, and progress, in a material way, hard—and since this is right in line with the infernal effects of Saturn and Uranus, you will do well during this period to content yourself with personal, rather than with public and business matters: go along the beaten track in business; do not seek to force too rapid advancement, which will take care of itself later, if you do not hurry it now. The times at which to be especially careful of forcing things, of temperament, anger and eccentricity are (in addition to those already given under Saturn and Uranus) as follows:

December 25 - January 3: Mars square Mercury and Sun, the two latter in Capricorn—great danger of your going off the deep end and causing an upset through high temper, or ill-timed action; lie low. March 13-20, domestic matter disturbing; be careful emotional considerations do not interfere with your business judgment and caution. April 2-10, repetition of preceding—avoid superiors as much as you can; they are difficult to manage now. May 13-20: extravagance warned against, also bad investments; watch haste due to emotional upset. July 12-22, a partner, or some one in control over you is difficult; lie low, don't start new plans or contact new people.

MARS IN SCORPIO

July 30th to September 16th

Mars in your house of friends will emphasize the optimistic quality of the advice you receive, as indicated by Jupiter there all this year. This may be a somewhat good influence, giving new impetus, and is a good time, in general, to forward your plans through the activities of others, with the exception of the following dates, which have already been dealt with under Uranus and Jupiter. August 2-10, and August 18-31. At these times, do as little as possible; do not plunge in elaborate schemes. Between these two dates, as Mars trines Saturn, is the best period to advance your interests—August 11-15.

MARS IN SAGITTARIUS

September 17th to October 28th

This is a twelfth house influence of Mars for you, and thus to be guarded against as a nervous, erratic, and unreliable period, calculated to bring out the worst of the Uranian vibration, and to make you nervous and touchy. Guard in this connection especially the square to Saturn (September 20-28) and to Neptune (October 5-13); beware not only of your own temperament at these times, but also of treachery and unreliability around you. Don't quarrel or lose your temper; this will be injurious not only to your peace of mind, but to your health as well.

MARS IN CAPRICORN

October 28th to December 7th

Mars in your Solar ascendant meets with only good aspects, and therefore this should be a good time for you to advance your interests, push your affairs, for your Capricorn tact will keep you from being too aggressive and rash even under this Martian stimulus. Avoid (because of the Uranian vibration) emotional matters; if you concentrate on worldly and objective things, this should be a very good period for you.

MARS IN AQUARIUS

December 7th to January 14th

A dangerous period financially, very dangerous. Whatever good you have got from Mars in Capricorn will be lost if you indulge in gambling, speculation, or emotionalism now. Keep your finances sound and secure: maintain the status quo as you developed it under Capricorn. Be especially careful December 5-15, when Mars squares both Venus and Uranus; Uranian eccentricity can lose you a lot of money now if you give in to it; also romantic matters are both dangerous and expensive. Keep yourself, and your gambling, romantic tendencies well in check here.

Message of the Stars

for January, 1935

The "high dis-tracting parties" during this period are Mars and Uranus; both in cardinal signs, one in the first decante and one in the last; raking the angles fore and aft, in degree areas of passionate conflict and uncompromising hostility. This is further intensified by an eclipse of the Sun on the 5th and an eclipse of the Moon on the 19th in square of Uranus.

However in the melange of emotional and mental disturbance Jupiter is working steadily in the background to establish and extend discipline; to control but widen the activities of large groups of people as a unit; to extend the arm of the law for the protection of the whole. Jupiter is now in the position of a benevolent despot—the watch dog—who is determined to raise the limitations of poverty; to direct business into larger channels; to subordinate the desires of the few to the good of the many; and to conquer crime in its various manifestations. Jupiter is very busy at his celestial forge; he has learned a good deal during the past years, and while his thunder bolts are still the best made, he has taken over Mars' job of making bigger and better swords on one anvil while the plow-shares are also being sharpened for the spring crops. He intends to be ready for anything, and will defend his right to extend his wealth, his possessions and his power by being prepared to face any foe, however crafty or belligerent.

Saturn does not form any aspects until near the close of the month. He is, nevertheless, an extremely important factor in the developments of January, and grows in constructive power increasingly up to the 25th when the exact sextile to Uranus takes place. Saturn is in a technical sextile to Uranus for the entire year, forming the exact aspect again in October. This will be an influence of conservation, of organization, of holding to that which is good in the turmoil of readjustment, that will carry the world through hardships and discouragement in 1935. In January Saturn will tend to bring the economic situation (as differentiated from the purely financial) to an organized basis. That this basis will form a new and radically different foundation for the operation of governments and business is indicated by the presence of Uranus in harmonious aspect; and it is imperative that such adjustments should be made in order that the progress of the world may be maintained.

Uranus delivers its final crashing blows under the shield of Aries in January. In order to more fully understand the rise and fall of periods—of the mode of progression through which we pass—(viewed from the movement of celestial bodies), if we look back we shall see that Usanus entered Aries in the spring of 1927, in trine to Saturn and practically conjunct Jupiter throughout that summer. In view of this initiation it is impossible to think (from an astrological standpoint) that the devastations occurring in every part of the world since that time, were for any other than constructive purposes. The stupendous development of life activities since 1900 necessitated a new formulation, and that took place between 1927 and 1935 in a series of cataclysmic upheavals, in revaluating basic ideas and principles, so that the progress of the future might be unimpeded. In 1927 "progress" was represented by a riot of spending, law and order in economics had departed. In 1935 we should find an economic structure that will be integrated with sound, stable growth and an ever widening expansion. That the advent of Uranus into Aries occurred under such aspects indicated the essential necessity for reconstruction. That it departs from Aries under a sextile of Saturn shows that the constructive elements are working and that out of the havoc and despair will come a strength of organization and solidarity of purpose that will recreate the world.

Although some of the most authoritative astrologers have not conceded that Uranus is the ruler of Aquarius, it is admitted by all that there is an especial affinity between that planet and sign. No sign seems to be immune from the devastating and reforming influence of Uranus, and no sign appears to negate the vitality of its cosmic urge on any plane, terrestrial or human. When the moment arrives that this dynamic ray focuses on material consciousness the person (or place) disintegrates earth-bound ties in order that the wider scheme—the plan of the ages—may proceed. With the sextile of Uranus in Aries to Saturn in Aquarius there is a very special interaction of building through "air-ways", as though the breath of the Gods was fanned by the fires of Aries, informing and reforming mental images, and bringing a new dimension into active service for the use of mankind. To the courage and valor of Aries is added the sympathy, the understanding, the broad concept of Aquarius, all of which is necessary to plot the future for the secure and successful continuance of life.

First Week

December 29 to January 5

The end of December finds the stage set for the forces that are to come to grips during January. The Sun and Mercury have moved forward to an exact conjunction and a square to Mars. Mercury reaches this aspect on December 31st and the Sun on January 1st. As we have pointed out in various issues of AMERICAN ASTROLOGY, the conjunction of the Sun and Mercury is an aspect of great importance particularly when another major aspect is involved. It is probably the most highly stimulating of mental and nervous aspects. Its use is to impregnate the human mind with fresh inspiration; to enlarge the vision; to energize the activity of all thought movement; to commence new processes through contacts, distribution, assimilation—of ideas, things and situations. It indicates the movement of commerce, the connecting nerve ganglia of transportation and communication between world centers, nations, states, communities or in physical bodies.

The forward movement that this intensification indicates on the last day of December is plunged into confusion by the square of Mars of January 1st. These aspects fall from the cardinal signs of Capricorn and Libra in 9 degrees, which will have the effect of paralysis on the structure of expectancy. The degree area is one of violence, destruction, self-assertion, pessimism and sorrow, while Mars has a fixed star influence indicating fire and storms, with many difficulties of a public nature. In the chart of the United States this configuration falls in square and opposition midway between Jupiter and the Sun, and with congress convening immediately thereafter, it looks as though the session would have a trail of gunpowder laid beforehand that would require very strong measures to prevent exploding. The extreme left wing will be powerful and refractory, and at the same time these rebellious influences are being subdued at home, foreign affairs will also be a serious question. Throughout the world a flare of conflict may follow ill-considered words, while politics and business may be illumined by incendiary brands in the burning. Statesmanship and diplomacy of a very high order will be needed to guide the world through this crisis.

On January 3rd a highly speculative tendency will be manifest through the trine of Mercury to Neptune. Those in a position to do so—along any line of endeavor—will begin counting their chickens with a fair possibility that the hatch will come up to their expectations. The handwriting will appear on the wall, and persons who are gifted with foresight and wariness may (probably very quietly) lay their plans, organize their forces, and round up their resources. This is an extremely subtle aspect; it points to large business affiliations that are conducted through secret methods, communications that are strictly coded, and a huddle system that precludes any interference. It also points to military maneuvers that are carried out under cover of great dispatch; strategy planned and executed promptly; positions will be taken in ingenious ways, and the enemy may be found ensconced in the front yard when the dawn breaks. The public mind will be changeable and in a humor to take advantage of rumors; there will be an intangible feeling of big movements, and there will be no mood to linger on the more stable and routine matters of life. The aspect is of great advantage to those who are intuitive and imaginative for they will be able to grasp opportunities at this time to put themselves in strong positions. Diplomatic overtures should meet with success.

Second Week

January 5 to January 11

The 5th of January should bring the above matters to birth with a tremendous expansion of business generally. For on that date Mercury sextiles Jupiter, while there is an eclipse of the Sun in trine to Neptune. In addition, for the past week and for the week following, Mercury and Venus are within one degree of a parallel of the Sun, which lends much concentration to each aspect as the days progress.

The indications from this powerful lunation with the Sun eclipsed in 14 degrees of Capricorn are that prominent officials, in both government and business will feel the devastating flood of public opinion and that they will have to bow to that opinion. The masses will have a spokesman who is able to defend their position, and during the two weeks to come it will be a matter of hurling reinforcements into the breach; of attack and counter attack; of strenuous efforts to prevent loss of prestige as well as loss of money and position. Changes that have been planned by authoritative persons may have to be postponed; orders will not be obeyed, Heads will find that their organizations have gone rather hay-wire, and those who use drastic measures may find that they are no longer "Head" when the full Moon arrives. The emotions of the people at large will be greatly stimulated; persons who express themselves through the imagination will benefit to a great extent by this configuration, the children of one's brains—all matters that come under the head of the "arts"—should be singularly successful at this time. This lunation finds Venus practically in conjunction with Saturn's south node, which appears to place smug ambitions in a very restricted area, and to disintegrate the superficial foundations of the "climber."

The sextile of Mercury to Jupiter is important for the reason that it will tend to smooth antagonisms; it will enable the people generally to take a broader view of conditions, with the ability to analyse and synthesize; to understand the other person's point of view and to intuitively do and say the right thing. It should be a great help in advancing labor conditions to a better level, as well as all institutional matters whether they be related to health or crime. Persons affected by the degree involved (17 of Capricorn and Scorpio) will have the inclination to get at the bottom of things; to establish facts, to find out the why and wherefores. They will be critical and possibly suspicious, and will leave no stone unturned to discover the facts in the case. Literature, art, science, legal and religious matters are under very favorable influences. The health of the public should be good, but deaths may occur in high places, suddenly and tragically.

On the 6th Uranus takes precedence in the theatre of the world, he commands the stage until the 18th when he completes his work of destruction to a stiff-necked people and to earth-bound traditions; he balances his account with Aries, leaving that Pioneer to forge ahead to new and more comprehensive attainments for the benefit of humanity. The annihilation begins with a square of Uranus to Venus, in 27 degrees of Aries and Capricorn, Uranus being stationary, implacable and ominous.

Venus in Capricorn is a rather disdainful lady. She is highly ambitious, snobbish, and restricts her public appearances to very select and orthodox entertainments where money and position are likely to abound. In private life she is not so selective. She has some affinity for associations that can not always stand the light of exposure; she has intrigues with persons beneath her, and she has appetites that tend to the abnormal at times. These tendencies leave her open to treachery, and it is during such period as this that this treachery arises to sink its fangs in her heart. A square of Venus to Uranus may bring on—up and out—very romantic attachments, but they are usually at the price of scandal and notoriety. Under its influence people will not listen to reason nor reflect with sobriety. The emotional nature is stirred to its depths; the rational mind is under the domination of desires. Older associations in either love or business are sundered by this aspect; friends, especially the opposite sex, create great difficulties; families are hostile; divorces occur, and while the love nature is greatly stimulated, only regret and sorrow arise from its expression. At this time there is every likelihood that prominent persons may be involved in scandal and that separations will be more numerous than ever. Promises will not be kept, and business will suffer drastic losses if there is a tendency to be arrogant and headstrong. Some very high personage in Europe may find that his indiscretions are a complete boomerang at this time, for very close relationships may have very tragic endings.

The ray of light that permeates this scene is a sextile of the Sun to Jupiter on the 9th. This shows that there are still responsible persons continuing business at "the old stand," that charity is not lost to the world, and that the poor and needy are being looked after to a surprising degree. There is a generosity in this aspect that is very fine and sympathetic, and it creates a sincerity of purpose that carries opponents and friends along to a constructive community of interests. Those in a position of power may be more benevolent; more anxious to adjust difficult matters, and to redress wrongs. The Bench and the Bar should work together under this influence to see that Justice is done; opinions may be handed down that will have far reaching effects as new precedents; legislation may be carried through to a point where stability is coincident with expansion. Travel, transportation, shipping, amusements all benefit under this aspect.

THIRD WEEK

January 11 to January 19

An amazing outburst of rumors, scandal, inside information on plots and schemes, mental cruelty that is determined and profound, will be news that is freely aired under the square of Mercury to Uranus on the 11th. Conditions that have developed since the new Moon could now be sensationally broadcast. Everyone will express his own opinion in dogmatic fashion, and accusations of all sorts will fill the air. Words and actions will not be weighed with tact and diplomacy; changes may be forced that will result in disaster. Associations, friendships, agreements will be broken; persons who have a grievance against anyone will be perfectly outspoken and probably antagonistic in their utterances. Facts are disregarded, and statements may be manufactured out of whole cloth. It is not a time to make any moves that can possibly be avoided; to attend to routine matters, and not to listen to gossip much less retail it. For the ground is being cut out from beneath the feet of persons who are not able to rest on a foundation of truth; Uranus is about to move the mountain—and probably the Earth will tremble as a result of this tremendous assault. Human rabbits may twist and turn and flee, but the Juggernaut will roll over them just the same. Those who have honesty and courage and faith will have the mountain brought to them, and be secure upon it.

The last and most decisive blow of this series of configurations will be struck on the 18th when Uranus squares the Sun. And "how are the mighty fallen" will be the echo. One of the essential qualities of Uranus is will-power, not will-power in a small or personal sense, but Will as directed, intelligent force that operates along cosmic lines, through laws that apply to universal conditions rather than to individual affairs. This will-power is also energy—energy of a mental and nervous type as distinct from the vital energy of the Sun and the forceful, combative energy of Mars. Uranians are the "rugged individualists"; they know what they want and what they intend, and they are not to be deterred from their goal by any influence whatever. If the way is not open before them they proceed to open it by any means at hand, and as they are the innovators, the inventors, the originators, impatient and direct, they more frequently cut the Gordian knot than untie it. The Master Plan works out through the Uranian influence apparently for the especial purpose of shattering old forms, preparatory to creating new patterns; of astonishingly widening horizons through cataclysmic events and chaotic adventures. The earth and her people are not to become moribund and stultified by lack of vision, by continued concentration on matters of the earth; and when Time appears to have reached a point where this is the case, Uranus, the super-explosive, changes the scene.

The square of the Sun to Uranus will adversely affect those connected with governing bodies, either national or local, elected or appointed. It endangers domestic happiness; popularity and "good will" generally. Bonds and ties between nations and people will suffer; those of friendship, marriage and business will be broken. Pluto in orb of a square to Uranus all the month increases this dynamic power.

Mental instability and emotional storms will characterize the period. The high sensitivity involved will affect the general health and nervous complaints will be numerous. It is a time to be adaptable, to lean with the wind, to allow period for rest and relaxation. It is not a time to insist on "rights," for the judgment will not be good and the simple determination to carry your own point may bring crashing results under this influence. The feeling should be under control and not allowed to sway one into saying or doing anything that is not based on the highest ethical and reasonable considerations.

FOURTH WEEK

January 19 to January 27

This series of Squares to Uranus is climaxed by the full Moon of the 19th, with an eclipsed Moon. This in all probability will bring about the death of an internationally known person and may create further divisions between nations. Precipitate action through intense feeling may cause serious conflicts among individuals as well as in international relations. The aspect inclines to hysteria of a very morbid sort, of frantic retaliation for (possibly) fancied wrongs, and of abrupt endings to what have hitherto been paramount interests. Catastrophes may occur at sea and seismic disturbances could be the cause of multiple deaths. The Pacific Ocean will be particularly liable to react to these influences as the path of the eclipse crosses from Australia to the western part of the North American continent.

Mars has been moving busily forward during the month, but very much in the background as the Uranian fire has raged. The Sun, Venus and Mercury having been worsted in their fight, Mars now comes forward in the guise of a guide and friend. A hand is held out in friendship, a strong arm is offered as a support, and he speaks with courage and conviction words that will again lift up the fallen and bring peace to broken hearts. On the 23rd Mars trines Venus and Mercury. A sense of again being normal, of active effort to establish a rapport between bodies of people; a confidence born of accepting the changes that have occurred, and a sincere desire to make the best of things as they now stand is manifest. The point of view will change to onward and upward; friends and associates will become helpful and sympathetic. World conditions will react on a firmer basis while the intent toward reconciliation and realignment will become obvious. News will be good, business will become more stabilized, and the ordinary affairs of life will again proceed with vigor and confidence. A new vision may inspire the people, and it may be possible to see at this time that the clearing of debris is very necessary before rebuilding can continue on secure foundations.

Venus and Mercury come to a square of Jupiter on the 25th, and human nature being as it is, it quickly follows that once more an extravagant feeling is abroad in the land. This probably means that in spite of Mars' assistance in reconciling tremendous differences between opponents, that legal machinery will be invoked to further separate the combatants. There will be a snarl of tangles to be unraveled; money will be involved, while delays in arranging details or in receiving communications will cause losses and impatience. Men will be self-opinionated and women will be snobbish and disagreeable. The aspects are such as to necessitate exactness in all dealings; that financial conditions should be carefully guarded; that everyone should be strictly accountable for their deeds and words. It is certainly not a time to step out on a limb, nor to accept roseate promises as actual facts. Avoid legal matters and attend to business.

This should be comparatively easy to do, for help comes from another direction, and if one puts their ego in its proper place (that is to recognize the rights of others as essential to the progress of the Whole) they will find by combining fresh ideas with conservative judgment that they will have achieved a secure starting point. On the same day (the 25th) Saturn salutes Uranus by a sextile aspect. The Old Man who works ceaselessly for the incorporation of Principle and Law into esoteric manifestation through structural form and selective limitation, greets and congratulates the Magician who destroys the obsolete patterns in order that new images may be made concrete. This sextile of Saturn to Uranus is very powerful. Both are leaving the sign he has tenanted; both in direct movement after retrograding, moving forward to greener pastures and fresher fields. This sextile is their final working agreement for Aquarian principles; through it is established a sounder economic structure on broader and more fluid lines for the use and dependence of generations to come. This is the culmination of a close sextile aspect that has progressed all during January, and while the work that has been done in connection with it has been subordinated to more spectacular affairs, Saturn has yet been an influence of sobriety and stability that has held the world at large in its accustomed path. There are always those who direct the ideas and activities of others, those whose solid sense and wise eyes are fixed on future probabilities, and at this time they are in possession of the marching orders—the direction in which they are pointed is “right.”

Venus and Mercury, our twins of the month (and our twin qualities of intellect and feeling) fall into each other's arms also on the 25th. They have given up fighting for the moment. They move as one; the mind and the heart in perfect accord. Commerce, business, professions, art, all take on a renewed vitality, with the possibility of actually becoming skittish in their enthusiasm, owing probably to the fact that they are still alive to tell the tale! The month has been harrowing, but now it is over (practically) and they are able to face new conditions with a new impetus.

FIFTH WEEK

January 27 to February 3

Surprisingly good news may be had on the 30th when Mercury sextiles Uranus. Channels of distribution open, changes are made, journeys are undertaken, all with every prospect of successful fruition. Unexpected information of a very favorable nature comes in; new plans are made, new routes are plotted; martial matters and munition stores have increased attention; matters pertaining to the air are successfully forwarded. Inventions and new discoveries may be announced. Associations formed at this time should be mentally stimulating and mutually beneficial. Even the common affairs of life take on an exciting rush.

But Saturn is seeing to it that in the excitement judgment does not go overboard, for on the same day Mercury comes into his camp for advice and instruction. As a rule when Mercury conjuncts Saturn there is a distinct lessening of movement; a lack of mental vitality, a slowness in getting away that is a definite set-back to progress. In this case, however, it should mean that basic principles, clear vision, sound judgment, are the factors on which the world will promulgate its decisions at this time. Mercury will be more or less in sextile to Saturn until the end of March, and during that time organization should proceed along conservative lines. Legislation should be dispassionate and critically constructive. Economics rather than finance should be the determining factor in all that is done. Strength and security will be brought about through the recognition of fundamental facts, and a course of action based on those facts rather than an acceptance of half-baked, even if brilliant, ideas. Those who are willing to take pains, to study their problems, to do the actual work of building securely, of going slowly but patiently without any deviation toward their goal, will find that they have a powerful influence in their favor at this time. This influence is not stolid nor morose—it has an underlying quality of movement, of seeing things grow, of executive power and the ability to push forward plans and ideas of substantial worth.

Venus, the little darling, has had a complete change of heart recently. For the moment she has decided to let by-gones (her own by-gones) be by-gones. She has given up wild parties and sub-rosa affairs; she is again interested in her own fireside, while the vine and fig tree once more offer solace and comfort. After demanding a divorce earlier in the month she talked the matter over with her lawyer; he had very little consolation to offer and practically no financial arrangements could be made. Under the trine to Mars she talked it over with a friend, and he told her to stop her dancing and settle down to business. Being wise, and with much acumen (in spite of her frivolous ways) she decided that she might do worse. So now we find her quite delighted with herself, even willing to work (inspirationally) to get what she wants. The sextile of Venus to Uranus on the 30th assures her that the beer and skittles have not all departed from this life, and that romance may be exciting even when well chaperoned. Business takes a more optimistic view of conditions at this time, and there is a sort of adventurous spirit in the air that is yet held within logical bounds. Emotions, while they are stimulated, seek natural and friendly outlets for expression.

This devotion to duty is intensified on the 31st by the conjunction and parallel of Venus to Saturn. Progress will come at this time through strict attention to duty, to business and professional matters; to limiting budgets, to cutting down expenses in any number of ways, but especially where pleasure may be concerned. In fact it is an aspect that definitely deletes pleasure as a vital factor. People under it generally dig in for a long, hard siege. The weather is cold. Persons under regimentation are brought to attention, and forward march! Comforts are discarded in the effort to reach the objective. Life becomes a serious business and emotional affairs are subjugated to the exigencies of the practical side of life.

Interpretation of Aspects In the General Forecast Chart for 1935

The following interpretation of the above aspects are based on the solar horoscope, and give the departments of your life which will be affected by these adverse, restricting, or aggravating influences during 1935.

By finding your birth period in the column at the extreme left, you may trace the aspects which these major planets make to your Sun and Solar ascendant during the year: then by referring to the readings given below, you may form a general estimate of the type of difficulties you will face during each month of 1935, and so be forewarned and forearmed.

Note that two readings (each for a group of signs indicated) is given in the case of the square aspect, depending on whether it falls in the tenth or fourth house of your solar horoscope. Be sure you read the delineation that includes your birth sign.

If you know your birth hour, and have your ascending degree, these readings will be found equally as accurate for your ascendant as for your Sun's place. Similarly they may be read for your Moon's place. Thus if your ascendant is 24 Leo, the aspects given under August 11-20 will signify the year for Ascendant matters; if your Sun is at 8 Cancer, the line opposite June 21-30 will signify the year with your Sun as a center; while if your Moon is at 11 Virgo, the line opposite September 1-10 will tell the story of your life for the year with your Moon as the focal point. All these readings will be found significant, although the one based solely on your birth date will be most radical and far-reaching, and inclusive in its effects.

Uranus square (for Capricorn, Aquarius). Disturbed domestic and personal matters; erratic conditions in the home environment; nervousness, worry, mental and emotional fatigue through these. You should try to relax. Occurring in connection with Mars Square, danger of loss of position through your own nervousness, or through eccentric superiors. Occurring with Mars conjunction, very erratic influence on you personally, danger of quarrels, arguments, accidents, loss through rash and hasty action.

Uranus square (for Cancer, Leo). Erratic and incalculable business and professional matters; your good name suffers if you act hastily, or try to force things too fast. Go slowly. Occurring in connection with Mars square, domestic matters and personal concerns interfere with business good judgment, great caution needed. Occurring in connection with Mars opposition, a partner obstreperous, and needful of being handled with kid gloves; loss through other people.

Uranus conjunction, headstrong, willful, independent, to the detriment of your own best interests. Curb impatience, arrogance, and a desire to rush in where angels fear to tread. Occurring with Mars opposition, a break with an associate, probably to your sorrow; this needs tactful handling. Occurring with Mars square, danger to position through ill-timed aggressiveness, touchy superiors, or your own eccentric actions.

Uranus opposition, business and personal relationships strained, sensitive people around you, while you yourself are also sensitive. Curb your personal desires and concentrate on objective things. Occurring with Mars conjunction, explosive personal blow up to be guarded against, nerves and health subject to upset. Occurring with Mars square, domestic and personal matters very much disturbed tension at home, personal grievances cause arguments and quarrels. You'll need self-control for this.

Saturn conjunction, depressed feeling, low vitality and high nervous tension, restrictions and set-backs get on your nerves. You can't force things now, or rebel against what you have to endure; little as you like it, it's there and the easiest way to get through is to make the best of it. Guard your health from worry, nervousness, and overwork. With Mars square, nervous and very rebellious and combative period—you will fight against things as they are, exhaust yourself, and go right on as before when it's over; and you might as well save your energies. With Jupiter square, false optimism and futile hopes; don't trust them.

Saturn square (for Taurus and Gemini), high ambition, with some chance of its success, if you don't try to push too fast; accept restrictions now gracefully; don't kick against the pricks. This is a powerful influence if you don't give way to impatience or depression. Work hard, though the reward seems delayed. With Mars opposition, guard against the collapse of your dreams through ill-timed action. Coast along, avoid disputes in the home, or with associates. Don't quarrel whatever you do; a dynamic partner is troublesome, and needs tactful handling.

Saturn opposition, restriction, real or imagined, through business or marriage partner; this is something you'll have to put up with now. You are depressed and nervous, also pretty discontented. Try to avoid these things; guard your health from emotional and physical exhaustion. With Mars square, domestic flare-up, pretty unpleasant; personal matters very annoying; your temper is high; curb it. With Jupiter square, pleasant conditions at home make things more cheerful; stick close to your hearth stone.

Saturn square (Scorpio, Sagittarius), domestic matters restrictive; your base of operations seems to discontent you. You can't make a break at this time to any good account. With Mars conjunction, you will be very much inclined to break and run at all cost. Don't do it; you'll jump from the frying pan into the fire. Control temper, anger, and temperamental tendencies.

Jupiter opposition, very optimistic, too much so; energy high, a tendency to overwork, and over-emote. Extravagant financial tendencies, leaning to the side of spending more than you have, with attendant loss of credit. With Mars opposition, all the above is emphasized, especially the financial part, with likelihood of loss through extravagance and bad investments. This is the time when some one will sell you gold bricks or bum oil stock if you aren't careful.

Jupiter square (for Leo, Virgo) domestic matters pleasant, but likely to cost a lot of money; optimism runs high; don't let it run away with you. Good vitality, but a tendency to over-exert and become exhausted thereby. With Mars square, very extravagant domestic expenditures; danger of loss of position through over enthusiasm; much activity in the home, alternating between pleasant and unpleasant.

Jupiter square (for Aquarius, Pisces) your fortunes are supported now by what is known as good luck, if you don't try to push it too far. Guard against a swelled head; don't believe everything your bosses tell you; they mean well, but things may not turn out quite as brightly as they say. However, a good progressive time for your advancement, if you don't spend all the money you make. With Mars square your optimism booms to the skies; you are promised the world and all; be skeptical—though this may develop, it is more likely to be a bubble. You ought to get something out of it, but less than you think at the beginning. Go easily.

Jupiter conjunction, favorable, vitalizing, optimistic, and progressive influence, if you don't get too enthusiastic and extravagant. With Mars conjunction, guard extravagance; with Mars square, a domestic difficulty besets you and is expensive.

Mars square (for Capricorn, Aquarius, Pisces, Aries, Taurus), danger to your position and credit through ill-timed and rash, and too-hasty, action. Speak softly, at this time; superiors difficult; you can't force your progress at this time, and you might as well not try; coast along, and avoid disputes especially with those in authority. Don't tempt public opinion with boldness.

Mars square (for Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio), restless, nervous vibration in the home; you are touchy, sensitive, and hard to deal with; things annoy you. Avoid quarrels with those you live with; handle them with tact and diplomacy.

Mars conjunction, you are headstrong, arrogant, and want your own way—if you ride this energy too hard, you'll come a cropper. Quarrels and strife, and misdirected enthusiasms; guard your health from fevers and the ravages of worry, nervousness and overwork.

Mars opposition, a partner is intractable, hard to manage; let him rave—don't argue with him. This is the time to let the other fellow get angry . . . and get over it. If you don't fight, no one can fight with you, and you should be as passive as possible and let the storms of the people around you go by without affecting you. Passive resistance is the watchword for this influence.

Venus conjunction, a somewhat good and magnetic influence, considered as an entity in itself, but susceptible to the other aspects in your delineation for the period. Inclines to cheerfulness, sociability, romance; increases your charm, and inclines others in your favor. If other influences do not harm this, it is a good time to ask favors, and seek what you want. If you are in an artistic career, this favors the completion of a project, profit through it; and is also a good time to start a new project. If Uranus adverse, erratic emotional life, inclining to unconventionality of outlook; you are hurt through intrigue and nervous unreliable emotions of yourself and others. If Mars conjunction, likelihood of sudden and explosive emotional matters; if Mars square or opposition, avoid sentimental and emotional involvements, the emotions of others, and of yourself, are unreliable. If Saturn is involved—by conjunction (if no other planets interfere) a powerful influence for material good, with some likelihood of emotional disappointment: by square or opposition, you are sensitive and likely to be hurt by coolness, hardness, or unapproachability in others; avoid sentimental dealings. If Jupiter conjunction (and no other planets interfere) a time of so-called luck, endangered by a tendency to over-optimism and plunging; if Jupiter square or opposition, too much indulgence in pleasure, bad judgment and excesses in romantic and social matters—good times carried too far; some danger of scandal and adverse public opinion.

Venus square or opposition, enthusiasm runs high, but things go wrong; hurt through friends or associates; emotions likely to be highstrung and upset. If Uranus involved, very erratic emotions, avoid all romance; if Mars involved, danger of deceit and treachery through the emotions, your sensitiveness is played on to some one else's advantage, hold yourself aloof to avoid laying yourself open to deception. If Saturn involved, emotional disappointment; likelihood of self-pity, emotional restrictions, love matters go wrong. If Jupiter involved, romantic dreams of an unreliable and impractical nature, financial extravagance in pursuit of will-o'-the-wisps, or good times; emotional excesses, and depletion of energies thereby.

In all configurations of Venus, watch for financial involvements, either through expenditures for pleasure and show, or through financial over-optimism, bad judgment, and haste.

Mercury conjunction, this conjunction of Mercury to your Sun is in itself a negative influence, inclining passively to intellectual affairs, and matters of speaking, writing, and publicity. Alone, it strengthens the mind passively, but is very sensitive to the influence of other planets. If Uranus conjunction, strong and independent mental period; if square or opposition, erratic and unreliable judgment.

If Saturn conjunction, profound and serious outlook, ability to make important decisions soundly; if square or opposition, same as conjunction, with likelihood of depression and loss of vitality through nervousness and worry. If Mars involved hot-headedness, high temper, danger of loss through rash or hasty judgments. If Jupiter conjunction (and no adverse planets) strong accurate judgment, optimistic, but likely to be good; if Jupiter square or opposition, look out for bad advice, and a tendency to lean heavily on too-ambitious plans and dreams. Some danger of adverse public opinion; unfavorable for publicity.

Mercury square or opposition—a good time to avoid making decisions; don't write, sign papers, or make agreements; other people's judgment, as well as your own, is not likely to be reliable now in matters involving your best interests. Good mental energy, but this should be used in routine tasks. The involvements of other planets in this aspect of Mercury have the same effect that that they have if involved with Mercury conjunction, heightened and intensified in their danger, with the exception that the Saturn conjunction (above) and the Jupiter conjunction (above) are to be treated as if they were squares. None of the involvements of the planetary positions listed helps this position, which is a time to lie low in business matters, especially in the department of contracts, agreements, and publicity.

Lunations (represented in the chart by the symbol in which the date represents the date at which the Moon falls near a conjunction of your natal Sun), has a powerful effect on your life for the month following, and tends to intensify the other matters in force at this time. If other planets, during the next month, do not make squares or oppositions to your natal Sun, this may be taken as a good four-week to start new ventures (preferably within two weeks following the lunation). If Uranus, Saturn, or Mars make adverse aspects (squares or oppositions) then you may expect an intensification of the dangers listed under those aspects, because of the lunation on your Sun. If Jupiter makes adverse aspects, plans go wrong through excessive speed, impatience, and over-optimism. If Jupiter or Venus conjunction, and no adverse aspects from the large planets during the month following the lunation, a very fortunate and progressive period is indicated.

April 10, 1908

There is a certain element of intolerance and lack of consideration of the rights or feelings of others in your makeup which will react badly upon you personally until you develop more tolerance and understanding. Without these qualities wisdom can be a barren heritage.

You have strong artistic hands, and could excel in music or in the fine arts.

You should learn to cultivate deliberation and curb impulsiveness which might often cause you to act first and think afterwards.

You would be quite successful in your own business, or in an executive position in some growing organization. You prefer to be at the head of things.

You are quite serious generally, with a practical viewpoint upon life. Your greatest material success should come after thirty.

You love travel and are impulsively generous with your intimate friends and relatives. Although an intellectual type, your affections are very ardent. A certain duality in your makeup may cause you to be somewhat capricious and uncertain in placing your affections permanently, but eventually you should be able to make a wise and enduring choice. Marriage should furnish excellent opportunity for the development of those co-operative traits to which we referred above.

There is some danger indicated in 1935 in regard to disputes with men, or some domestic friction may annoy you considerably. Be careful to avoid accidents. The year should be ultimately successful. The Lamp of Reason is burning most brightly and progressively. New beginnings are favored, or the starting of new enterprises. Travel and make changes if you desire. Financial affairs prosper. Much self-confidence is shown and more than the average ability and determination to forge ahead.

The past two years have been changeful ones, quite disruptive. 1934 especially was indicative of dissension, deception, disputes and the probability of illness or accidents. The unexpected card turned up often in your game of life. Much optimism is shown for 1935. Romance is favored, even marriage. Improvement in health is indicated and much faith and confidence in life and in yourself.

Feb. 21, 1880

In early life you were concerned too much over relatives or intimate friends and overly annoyed by little things, or by the tiny pin stabs of a seemingly malignant environment, which you should have left at an early age to hew out your own path in life. Travel and higher philosophy are needed to assist you in developing an impersonal viewpoint, which will become an armor of protection.

You are capable of unfolding strong clairvoyant powers, but this should not be confused with psychism or mediumship, which latter would be very harmful to you. Avoid or investigate only in a scientific and detached spirit anything that concerns the so-called "astral" planes. That your mind can be quite objective and positive is shown. You are argumentative and combative in thought, writing or action. Avoid extravagance in financial matters and don't overwork mentally or physically. Extremes are always harmful.

You will be inclined to marry someone older than yourself, or one who would be helpful in the material affairs of life. You should be fortunate in your dealings with women. It is men who are not so harmonious in their relations with you.

The protective instinct is strong in your makeup. You would do well to connect yourself with some humanitarian or philanthropic enterprise or institution. Avoid being carried away by pity or emotion however. Be sure the receiver of your help merits same. Seek to become a practical idealist and philosopher.

1935 is bringing you increased responsibilities. Business affairs are favored if you work hard and attend to routine duties. Don't be impatient if results seem delayed. Manifest the qualities of Saturn throughout the year, which are faithfulness to duty, stability, self-discipline, thrift, tact or diplomacy, and concentration of effort to a just cause, also be as systematic and efficient as possible.

Though they may not be at all apparent, progressive influences are at work under the surface. Be careful to avoid arguments and disputes. The year can be successful if you remain thoroughly practical and steady; some depression is shown, but hard work should offset this influence.

Romantic ventures are not favored, or dealings with younger women. Early in the year some business of financial troubles may annoy you, but hold your ground as consistently as possible. The final results may be delayed, but it is the Law that no honest effort can be wasted, nor can any worthy labor go unrewarded.

A year of tests and not much happiness of the lighter variety, but it paves the way for a fuller and better future.

Nov. 18, 1894

You have a deep, serious and penetrating mind and like ferreting out secrets of any kind, but would not be inclined to divulge your own. You are optimistic generally and enjoy good living. An interest in astrology and other occult subjects is shown. You like things to be just so where time, place and affection are concerned, but should not carry this to the excess of being too exacting in these matters, or demanding more from others than you can give in return. This latter does not refer to material gifts, for you are generous with those whom you love and with your personal friends. You possess much attraction and magnetism for the opposite sex and should find your real happiness and fulfillment in marriage. A Piscean or Taurean would balance your life very well. You are sincere in your affections but should guard against the demon Jealousy.

1935 should be an interesting year for you. Life should move along more smoothly than previously and the troubles of the past year are lifted from your shoulders. Much optimism and happiness in one form or another is indicated. You have entered into a more progressive, forceful, aggressive and objective era of your life, which continues for several years. Expansive benevolent influences are at work throughout 1935 to promote your success and make you more in harmony with yourself, and incidentally with the world around you. This is a good period to ask favors or seek to effect a compromise with any opposing element in your environment. Be careful however to avoid extravagance and jealousy.

A hang-over of Saturn from 1934 lingers during January, 1935. The most depressing days are the 1st, 7th, 21st and the p.m. hours of the 29th. Keep your courage during this last lap of Saturn and look forward to the brighter side of life which Jupiter is about to display.

You will realize your greatest success after marriage, but this will present quite a problem because of your innate desire for perfection in your mate. Yours if a fairly fortunate chart, with inclinations toward the scientific, artistic and intellectual pursuits.

Important changes are indicated in your life in the near future, probably involving your domestic relations in some way. After a year of trials, tests and much emotional depression life opens upon a newer, fuller and higher dimension. This growth and change has been painful and is completely past by February 1935. Remember that we live to grow and that growth usually involves pain; and that experience is what counts; forget the pain, save to remember the lesson it has taught; look forward to a brighter and more complete life which the future now holds for you, if you accept everything that has happened philosophically.

1935 promises to be a very progressive year, and new friendships with people of a more advanced or intellectual plane are indicated. It is a year of great mental acceleration, and strongly favors the origination and organization of some new enterprise and for an unmarried person, favors romance and marriage.

"1935"

A Year of Remarkable Cosmic Evolution

According to Hindu Astrology

Translated from Various Sources

by PRITAM SINGH GILL, B.A.

GENERAL TENDENCIES

The ruling planet for this year is Jupiter, and Saturn is his Chief Aide-de-Camp. Mars is the Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces of the Solar System. Saturn, beside his duties as a statesman also rules over Rain. Mars governs agriculture; Jupiter has also sway over liquids. The Sun holds domain over trade and the grain markets of the world. Mars determines the production of Metals.

Mercury will be the Ruler over the Spring Solstice.

The different heavenly bodies assume lordship over the different departments of Life on Earth, as the ministers or secretaries are responsible for certain activities of an Empire or a Nation.

As the Chief responsibility or stewardship during the year rests with Jupiter and Saturn, the results are not likely to be altogether pleasant.

Below is given a chart showing the different planets and their domain on this Earth for the year 1935.

ahead at an alarming pace. The race for naval armaments, as a result of the failure of naval talks and conferences among the maritime powers of the Earth, will create a sense of insecurity and suspicion among the various powers, in addition to which we may expect labor disputes, riots and strikes all over the world.

Germany, France and Rumania are indicated as the hot spots of Europe and will provide some news of an alarming nature.

Although Germany will make great progress, especially in her national unity and spirit under the leadership of Dictator Hitler, she is going to lose her prestige abroad and suffer a great set-back in her foreign trade. In France a set-up of Dictatorship is indicated.

Austria and the nations of the little Entente will provide fuel to the already smoldering fires on the European continent, but quick action by the big powers will probably prevent any serious outbreak of open hostilities. One of the ruling kings or heads of a European nation is indicated as marked for death or assassination.

Planet	Jupiter	Saturn	Mars	Saturn	Mars	Jupiter	Sun	Mars
Domain	Ruler of the year	Chief of operations	Commander in chief	Rules rain	Rules agriculture	Has sway over juices and liquids	Commerce and trains	Controls metals and precious stones, etc.

According to Hindu Astrology the mascot of the year 1935 is the RAT.

INTERNATIONAL PREDICTIONS

As the ruling planet for this year is Jupiter, so the trade and commerce among different nations of the world will improve at a rapid stride. Especially the nations of the Orient will provide new markets for the industrial nations of the world. Financial difficulties and lack of credit will be smoothed over and a cooperative spirit will prevail. Improved facilities for credit-expansion will be the keynote.

As Mars is the Commander-in-Chief of the heavenly bodies, rumors of war will be heard on all sides. Military preparations will go India and the Philippine Islands are well favored by the stars before March 31, 1935. The political situation of these two countries will improve very much. England especially, having recognized the futility of continuing to hold India by mere force of arms against the will and cooperation of the people, will yield to the demands of Indian Nationalists. The United States of America will also recognize in fact or in word the independence of the Philippine Islands.

South America will be recognized more and more as a potential field for the expansion of trade and commerce. A great rush of people is indicated to one of the countries of South America but a possible act of aggression on the part of one of the countries of South

Hindu Astrology

FORECAST FOR JANUARY 1935

Translated by

PRITAM SINGH GILL, B.A.

Pres.—Hindu Science Institute of America

I Mirror of the Earth:

(1) As the Hindu month opens with a neutral Nichhittar in the ascendancy we should expect the price level of grains in general to be the same as in the last month of 1934. However, the prices of wheat, rye and barley will go up a little, due to a large extent, to some governmental action along general agricultural lines. Rice, sugar, spices, milk, butter, dairy products and candies will maintain a higher level. Cotton, cotton fabrics, rayon, silk and woolen products will be favorably affected by the general rising tide of prices all around. Gold, silver and copper will be dearer; but nickel and brass will be just about holding their own. Wood, coal, forrage, etc., will be higher.

(2) People should be careful in general from exposing themselves to severe winds, which will be plentiful during this month; women especially are likely to suffer from head colds, coughs, asthma, etc.

II Mirror of the Sky:

(2) Cloudy, cold and snow during a considerable portion of this month. We should expect an unusually long and severe winter. Cloudy on the 2, 6, 7, 10 and 11. Strong winds and snow on the 14 and 15. Lightning and gray skies on the 18. Snow and rain on the 20th and 21st. Cold winds on the 27th, 30th and 31st.

(2) If it is windy on the 18th then we should expect plenty of rain from June 4th to June 7th. If it is cloudy on January 4th then we shall have plenty of rain. If it is quite clear on the 5th, then we will have very little rain during July and August. If there be lightning on Jan. 10th then we should expect a great deal of rain on June 19th. If it is especially cold on Jan. 21st, we will have lack of rain during the months of June and September. If there is strong wind and some lightning then we will have plenty of rain during the coming Summer Season. If it snows on Jan. 25th economic conditions will improve rather quickly after and if it is quite clear on Jan. 28th, grains in general will tend to be cheaper.

America is likely to disturb her expanding foreign trade.

Russia and Japan will occupy an important place in the world news, with possible conflict in Siberia.

As Saturn rules rain, during this year, we should expect some unusual rainstorms or general lack of rain, which is likely to prove harmful to crops. Mars rules Agriculture and we should expect the farmers to assert their rights more and more.

Jupiter rules over juices and liquids in general. A great deal of profit will be made in the handling of wines and liquors, gasoline, kerosene and other liquids. The Sun holds sway over Trade and Commerce and we should have a great deal of activity in the direction of the reviving of old markets and creating new ones.

Mars has rulership over precious metals. We should expect to see the different powers of the world rushing to corner precious stones and metals. There are likely to be some agreements and misunderstandings regarding their monopolistic tendencies among the various powers.

In short the year 1935 holds before our eyes a peculiar picture of the future—a picture at once indicating events of a disturbing nature and also holding out a promise of trade revival as already pointed out by me in the pages of American Astrology magazine. The years 1933 and 1934 have been two of the most important years of the present century. On the outcome of our labors during these years will depend to a large extent the future happiness and progress of the human race. The year 1935 will prove to be full of excitement and it is to be hoped that our leaders are guided by the spirit of unselfish devotion to the cause of world unity and progress on well-defined lines and a true and inspiring civilization.

Financial Forecast

STOCK MARKET

The stock market for January will continue the basic bullish trend except for a reactionary period during the middle of the month. Just as there are markets within the market with individual stocks or groups of stocks booming while the others lag, so each month brings to the fore certain specific parts of the business world. Some indication of these may be gleaned from a solar ingress chart.

A chart drawn for the Sun's entry into Capricorn shows Jupiter to be in a strong position in the tenth house. This is certainly excellent for business particularly oil, chemical, food, management and to some extent mining businesses. The trine from Pluto and the Moon in the seventh house to Jupiter shows an increase in foreign trade. This is aided by foreign exchange conditions as shown by the sextile of Neptune from the eighth. The configuration shows better business conditions without a doubt and since Jupiter is squared Saturn from the second house the business angles are better than the monetary angles. To this extent the market may lag a bit behind business during January or rather business is going to catch up to the market.

The following dates show the minor trends:

Up—through the 5th—High for the month.

Down—through the 25th—Low for the month.

Up—through the 31st.

We have again studied the charts of the companies mentioned in the December issue and find them still in bullish trends.

Since this is the first month of the New Year, a few words concerning the market for the entire year are in order. We are definitely bullish on markets, prices and business for the year 1935 not because it is the polite thing to say on the New Year or because we are one of those who always write bullish statements. Rather because the study of many charts and a study of the major aspects forming during the year lead us to that conclusion. Outside of the minor bad aspect between Uranus and Neptune and the square between Jupiter and Saturn in November, the major aspects are favorable. The recurring sextile between Saturn and Uranus is very good but better still is the trine between Jupiter and Pluto in October.

The year is unusual in one respect, however, and that is the five solar eclipses occurring. Since the Moon's Nodes lay in Capricorn and Cancer, the business and crops signs, it is within our Province to note them. The effects of these eclipses are not sharply defined and usually exert a depressing effect over a certain number of days or weeks as the case may be. Since there are five of these there may be an overlapping thus producing a general dampening effect.

DAILY STOCK FORECAST

Wednesday, Jan. 2—The New Year starts in the right direction. An up day.

Thursday, Jan. 3—A more active, broader market on the up side. Probably an adverse day for utilities, however.

Friday, Jan. 4—Although this day is indicated as upward, would advise the trader to be careful on the buy side.

Saturday, Jan. 5—This should be a top day, accept profits.

Monday, Jan. 7—This day may appear to start well, but a restricting influence is close at hand.

Tuesday, Jan. 8—Down day with much conflicting opinion.

Wednesday, Jan. 9—Increased volume but do not favor the long side except in the alcohol stocks which may rally from the ninth to sixteenth.

Thursday, Jan. 10—Rally day, especially in the automobile companies for they show strength from here to the sixteenth.

Friday, Jan. 11—Downward trend resumed. More news about the utilities.

Saturday, Jan. 12—Bear day with bearish sentiment and news prevailing.

Monday, Jan. 14—Down trend resumed with selling of steel stocks.

Tuesday, Jan. 15—Rally today but would not follow it.

Wednesday, Jan. 16—The rally may extend through the morning hours but we expect the selling to be resumed in the afternoon.

Thursday, Jan. 17—This day appears favorable, especially in the morning.

Friday, Jan. 18—Downward tendency resumed.

Saturday, Jan. 19—Down day, especially with the oils and utilities.

Monday, Jan. 21—The steel stocks look like the brightest spot in an otherwise dull day.

Tuesday, Jan. 22—A typical Neptune day. To make the wrong commitment is very easy.

Wednesday, Jan. 23—We are nearing the turning date and while the rest of the market is bearish, the oils, chemicals and steels look good here.

Thursday, Jan. 24—Add to advice for the previous day, electrics, foods and management companies.

Friday, Jan. 25—The turning day. After a flurry of selling in the morning, the market should be a buy.

Saturday, Jan. 26—This appears to be a good day to buy the market on weak spots.

Monday, Jan. 28—Bull day with larger activity.

Tuesday, Jan. 29—The up trend may be interrupted by reactions.

Wednesday, Jan. 30—Up trend resumed after some early hours weakness in oils and utilities.

Thursday, Jan. 31—The month should close with a bullish day with a broad, active market.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

Commodity markets for January are ruled by the combined influences of Jupiter and Uranus. In general, these markets are under bullish aspects and should do well during this month except for reactionary periods. Just as there are markets within the market on the stock exchange, so some commodities show special strength at times. For this month, the corn, wheat, silver and rubber markets seem to offer the best trading possibilities.

The corn and wheat markets are likely to show the greater number of trading moves and the active trader may find these markets more to his liking. The minor swings are indicated by the following trading dates for grains:

Up—through the 4th—High for the month.

Down—through the 12th.

Up—through the 19th.

Down—through the 23rd—Low for the month.

Up—through the 31st.

Wheat will be influenced during this month by conditions of foreign crops and astrological charts indicate that there should be no scarcity in these foreign quarters.

The cotton market should not show the same number of moves as the grain markets and although there will be a great deal of talk about cotton and cotton planting, the market should move as follows:

Up—through the 5th—High for the month.

Down—through the 23rd—Low for the month.

Up—through the 31st.

For the coming year commodities in general are under bullish aspects and should see higher prices than the present ones before the year is out. For those who have taken an investment position in commodities we see no aspects which would dictate a change of position. Of course such investors may wish to adopt a semi-trading attitude and sell part of the holdings on a selling date and replace them at the next buying date preferably in a more distant option.

It is indicated that there will be some attempt at additional regulation of these markets and the advent of Uranus into Taurus during 1935 lends strength to this idea. This will undoubtedly have a limiting effect on wild speculation in these markets and probably will be aimed at those who wish to swing the whole cat by the tail. But this should not affect the people legitimately engaged in commodity business; those in a position to do a reasonable amount of trading; or those who have entered these markets as a hedge against inflation.

Inflation! Inflation! The magic word bandied about with a carelessness that is astounding. The magic wand which will wipe out all past debts and no doubt future ones as well. The wand which will enable one to run a single bushel of wheat into a grain elevator full, including the elevator. So thought many people in July, 1933. We doubt if we shall see this kind of inflation this year in this country. In fact a close study of a correctly rectified chart of the U. S. A. shows that the worst of the Saturnian influence affecting the nation's credit through the tenth house is over.

However, inflation or not, the time of making commitments is a very important element. Even in a wild inflation prices do not go straight up and a study of past inflationary periods will show many violent up and down moves.

The rubber and silver markets are long pull investments. This is particularly true in silver because of the 50 per cent tax on profits. The aspects to the rulers of these markets are benefic and the long trend up. The proper time for investors to enter these markets is on buying dates at times of weakness as indicated below.

DAILY COMMODITY FORECAST

Wednesday, Jan. 2—This should be a bull day for wheat, corn and cotton.

Thursday, Jan. 3—An up day for commodities with silver showing some special strength.

Friday, Jan. 4—The top for the grain markets especially wheat may be reached today. Grade and staple cotton report today.

Aspectarian

For December, 1934

An HOUR GUIDE for every day by which it is possible to determine the BEST HOUR of any given Day, for commencing or consummating any specific undertaking.

By acting at the RIGHT TIME, we reduce the chances of error to a minimum. It must be understood that each influence becomes effective several hours in advance of the HOUR given, but decreases in power very rapidly after passing that hour. The extent of this interval varies widely for the various Planets involved. The Hours given may be accepted as a reliable guide if you will time your actions and decisions to be made as closely as possible to the Hour given. If it is not possible to act exactly at the Hour given then a time should be chosen which is Earlier rather than LATER.

Saturday, Jan. 5—Opinions on the cotton report of yesterday may be revised. This should mark the month's top for cotton.

Monday, Jan. 7—Not a good day for commodities. Silver and rubber may show strength, however.

Tuesday, Jan. 8—Bearish day for all commodities.

Wednesday, Jan. 9—Although there may be a show of strength in corn and silver today, the aspects for commodities in general are not benefic. Good news on foreign crops.

Thursday, Jan. 10—Government report on farm stocks, etc. of crops other than cotton. This appears to be bullish but would not follow it.

Friday, Jan. 11—A generally bearish day.

Saturday, Jan. 12—Do not like any of the commodity aspects for today except wheat and corn which show rallying tendencies from this date to the nineteenth.

Monday, Jan. 14—Although the monthly trend is downward, silver, wheat and corn may rally.

Tuesday, Jan. 15—Cotton and rubber down.

Wednesday, Jan. 16—Aspects not favorable today except for sharp rallies in corn.

Thursday, Jan. 17—Rallies may be expected today.

Friday, Jan. 18—The long side does not appear favorably.

Saturday, Jan. 19—The wheat and corn rallies from the twelfth end.

Monday, Jan. 21—Bearish day except for news on rubber.

Tuesday, Jan. 22—The aspects for commodities are bearish.

Wednesday, Jan. 23—This day should mark the monthly low for commodities in general. Buying date for silver and rubber.

Thursday, Jan. 24—Buying day. Canadian Government final estimate of area, yield and value of field crops. Bullish.

Friday, Jan. 25—Mixed, irregular day. However, the trend is up.

Saturday, Jan. 26—Much better sentiment prevails. Bullish, particularly on silver.

Monday, Jan. 28—Up trend should be resumed.

Tuesday, Jan. 29—Reactions are the prospect, particularly rubber and silver.

Wednesday, Jan. 30—Favorable, bullish news.

Thursday, Jan. 31—This appears as a bullish day on all commodities.

ARIES

The Month of January for those
Born March 21 to April 19

December 28 to January 5

This is a week of conflicting omens for Arians. Your vitality and energy will be high, your judgment and popularity likely to be strong; yet there is pressure on you from financial quarters. You seem concerned about money matters; yet in some way or other, your position in the world is well maintained now, either through secret means, or through the activities of relatives. Friends are disturbing; and a legal matter bothers you; this is not a time to force settlement of court matters, for the indications are that if you lie low during this difficulty, it will be likely to blow over, due to the support you are given from unsuspected sources; while if you force matters, you will be aggressive at the wrong times, and inactive at the wrong times, and this brings things to a bad pass. This is a week for 'passive resistance'; do not let money matters get on your nerves, for this appears to be a condition that a few weeks will straighten out somewhat, and in the meantime, the less you do about it the better.

January 5 to January 11

The new moon falls in square to Mars, and in sextile to Jupiter, and also trine to Neptune, making this a very active, but not especially smooth, period for you. You seem now to have certain public standing, but to have legal difficulties about it; also you seem to be seeking a change which is difficult to bring about; and your finances are still a source of concern to you. Your mental activity is now somewhat erratic, and in spite of a very great desire to make decision, you find this difficult to do. You must be very careful not to allow excess of mental energy upset things for you now; there is a quarrelsome tendency here that will affect your good standing with the public if you allow yourself to come into open conflict at this time. Your enemies appear to be camping on your doorstep waiting for you to make a false move, which you should assiduously avoid doing.

January 11 to January 19

Although it cannot be said that the above-described conditions become favorable this week, yet they tend in a small degree to relieve the worst of the pressure, especially the financial. You are mentally still upset and erratic, likely to say and do the wrong things, and for this reason you should continue to say and do as little as possible; yet conditions around you are such that some action appears to be forced on you, or at least you will think so. If this matter will possibly stand being postponed, you should not act this week; try to curb your erratic temperament now, and be as diplomatic as possible, though this will be a difficult job. Jupiter continues to support your standing, if you do not upset matters by tactless, and too-forceful activity. This is still a time to do as little as possible—do only what is necessary: you are as a lamb among wolves: be therefore as gentle as a dove and as wise as a serpent.

January 19 to January 28

This is the week of the full moon, when things tend to come out in the open, and it is likely at this time that some activity in the matters in which you have been lying low will be forced on you. During the entire transit of Mars in Libra, which lasts till July 30, you will have to be careful of too-great aggressiveness, of tactlessness, and of quarrels; yet this week, of all the weeks of this month, presents you an opportunity cautiously to lay plans. This cannot be said to be an entirely favorable week for you; you are still inclined to be headstrong, erratic, and willful, and to alienate people by too-rash speech; yet now there is a chance, with Venus and Mercury making the trine to the troublesome Mars, for you to go forward with some hope of success: but even under these more favorable auspices, you cannot afford to go as fast as your impetuous nature wishes. You will have to use a good deal of tact, caution, and care, to bring these matters to a successful issue, but this week the stars offer you an opportunity to make a conservative effort.

ARIES—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Pluto. Friendships and domestic matters are troublesome; pursue private paths: write, correspond.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Jupiter. You are energetic, active, and optimistic; don't try to go too fast or too far.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Jupiter. A financial worry is bothersome; you are urged to more aggressive action than is good for you.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Saturn. Quarrelsome day; your credit is under attack, and you are moved to defend it aggressively. Remember that a soft answer turneth away wrath.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Saturn. Worried, troubled, fretful over finances and domestic matters. You can't come to any satisfactory decision today.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Uranus. This is a good Sunday to relax and regain confidence in private and quiet.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Saturn-Uranus. Depressed, blue, worried; finances are on your mind very strongly, but in some way your credit is bolstered if you move slowly.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Neptune. Finances strained through a partner or associate; you are tempted to some sort of legal action. Go very carefully.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Neptune-Jupiter. You feel energetic and optimistic today; able to override your financial troubles. Don't be tempted to too optimistic action.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Mars. Dangerous day. enmities crop up, tempting you to anger. Avoid it.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Mars. Energetic but confused. Your position is good today, but you endanger it.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Venus. Gossip is annoying; ignore it; a woman troubles you. Evening hours good socially.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Venus. Optimistic advices from an associate both elates and depresses you. Go slowly.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Venus. This is a good day to make decisions and lay plans of a cautious nature. But you must still act with great care and caution.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Mercury. Confusing influences at home; yet in the world matters favor you. If action is necessary, this is a good day for it.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Mercury. You are mentally active and alert; private forces favor you somewhat today.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Moon. Nervous and irritating day; matters at home have you annoyed. Curb your temper.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Moon. A continuation of yesterday's personal irritation, though with more optimism. Social matters likely to be pleasant.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Sun. Today finds you optimistic and aggressive; an associate or partner is helpful.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Sun. Curb your enthusiasms today; advice is confusing and likely to lead you astray.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Sun. Restriction from a partner proves helpful in the long run; lie low; avoid action.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Mercury. A financial matter annoys you; write, correspond, but avoid nervousness.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Mercury. You may be tempted to hasty action today, in finances. You must still go cautiously.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Venus. This day will try your patience; enmity oppresses you: social matters active and pleasant.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Venus. Extravagant and emotional tendencies to the fore: maintain a close watch on yourself.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25 ruler Venus. Today above all days avoid action, no matter what the temptation. You can scarcely fail to do the wrong thing if you are aggressive.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Venus. This is an erratic day when, like yesterday, partnerships are irritating. Lie low.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Pluto. Today you may try to put some plan into action, conservatively and cautiously.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Pluto. You are optimistic, but a domestic matter worries you. Work hard at routine tasks.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Jupiter. You are full of energy but a confusing condition is operative in your department of professional advancement. Correspondence and advice good.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Good news through a letter; formulate practical plans. Start a new venture.

TAURUS

The Month of January for those
Born April 20 to May 21

December 28 to January 5

This will be a week of some worrisomeness and oppressiveness, in which personal matters will be very much on your mind. Do not worry now, if you can help it, over secret things, for in spite of the fact that you are bothered about them, you are well supported by friends, and your environmental conditions are good, though quiet and unobtrusive. Be careful of secret or private agreements with partners or associates in money matters; for now there is a radical and extravagant financial influence operative on you from a partner with very aggressive money-ideas. This is not a week in which you should become aggressive, however; it is rather a time for watchful waiting, patience, and calm. You are strongly under the influence of Saturn, both this week and next, which indicates slow, plodding progress not unattended by worry; for Saturn is now in your Solar tenth house, and this month, especially these first two weeks, you are likely to feel the full strength of his restrictive methods. Do not rebel against things as they are, but merely continue quietly in the beaten track.

January 5 to January 11

The Saturnine influence continues, becoming this week even more confining, and making you, in contrast, even more restless. This is a good time to formulate plans, make important decisions, and in general carry on as much as you can in looking ahead, without, however, taking any important action. You will now be able in private, or through the advices of some strong and loyal friend, to lay the foundations for something that will develop in the future, but there is no need for you to expect action, or results, this week. In fact, any strenuous attempt to bring results about now will result chiefly in keying you up to a pitch of excitement—in spite of which, nothing very much will happen. This is a good time to write, read, correspond, perhaps travel . . . in short, to do those things that can be carried on alone, more or less in private, which will take up the energy that you feel. Do not work or think too hard; avoid excess emotion, which will unnerve you and exhaust you.

January 11 to January 19

This week financial considerations are very active and troublesome; a partner becomes obstreperous about your money matters, and you yourself incline to extravagance and high-flown schemes for the furthering of your financial position. This is an extremely dangerous influence, and one under which you should move with extreme caution, for it is practically impossible for you to alter your financial situation satisfactorily now; in fact, any attempt to do so is almost sure to result in loss. This is definitely a time, in matters of finance, and employment, to maintain the status quo, do only what is necessary, and not to take the aggression. Avoid quarrels, especially over money matters. Secret agreements of a conservative nature favor you, and some friend is still being helpful.

January 19 to January 28

A partner this week appears to be helpful: if you have avoided the temptation to plunge last week, you will find yourself in a pretty good position this week. It looks as if some private matter were developing to your advantage, and as if your patience were about to be rewarded. This is still a time, however, for care and caution, in all matters, business, financial, and emotional . . . you should not now be too eager for the ultimate consummation, for by being too aggressive you can disturb the things which are now developing nicely for you. You are somewhat restricted in your movements at this time, and this inclines to irritate you and make you impatient; yet all things come to him who waits, and you cannot hurry this matter by being restless: you can only make yourself unhappy. A legal matter or a letter from a distance seems to be upsetting; relatives and in-laws seem all around you; but these do not seem to interfere with the development of your plans. Keep your temper; and also keep your ideas to yourself: the fewer people that know them, the better they will work.

TAURUS—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Money matters active, and favorable in a conservative way. Something at home is restrictive; you should go out.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Saturn. Your standing and position are under fire, but this is more exciting than dangerous.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Saturn. Friends help you; good social day in which contacts prove profitable. Go about.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Uranus. Quarrelsome and argumentative day; avoid the law; speak, write and commit yourself as little as possible.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Uranus-Saturn. Start new ventures, slowly and without aggression; good day for deep-laid and slowly-developing plans.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Neptune. Good social Sunday—friends are around you, and you like it.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Neptune. Both optimistic and depressed today, by fits and starts. Don't act on impulse.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Mars. Partners and associates annoying; a deceptive influence; be shrewd and cautious.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Mars. This is a day to weigh everything you hear, especially what touches your business and professional advancement. Forceful but erratic, influences.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Venus. A woman is helpful; a partner hopeful; a subordinate quarrelsome. Be tactful.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Venus. Keep everything to yourself today, and act as little as possible. You are feeling your power, but this is not a time to impress it.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Mercury. Secret talk is in the nature of gossip; ignore it. Active day socially.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Mercury. Today you are full of optimism and plans, but be sure they have foundations in reality before you go ahead. Some emotional involvement.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Mercury. Good day to lay plans; your mind is active, clear, and concise. Sign papers; reach agreements.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Moon. Confusion at home, but a good social day for you. Enjoy yourself.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Moon. Good day to get things done; some plan materialises suddenly, and it seems well.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Sun. Today starts confused and ends worse: personal or domestic matters turbulent; keep your temper!

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Sun. Don't let early-morning-optimism lead to rashness later in the day. This is a time to think things through carefully, however fine they look.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Mercury. Deception from an associate; guard against bad advices; use your own judgment.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Mercury. Gossip, scandal! You are confused, depressed; be negative in money dealings.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Mercury. Do the day's work: wind up old matters, but do not start new ones.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Venus. A personal and social or romantic matter crops up: this looks fascinating but risky, and you are a little bewildered by it. Go easy!

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Venus. Negative day: an obstreperous partner needs jockeying; your sense of humor helps here.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Pluto. Activity in the home; personal matters active and absorbing. Lay domestic plans.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Pluto. Financial optimism makes this a pleasant, but risky, influence. Plan, but cautiously.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25. You can get things done today if you keep your temper and don't let your enthusiasms run away with you.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Pluto. This looks like Sunday at home with all the relatives holding a convention.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Jupiter. A secret matter has you all keyed up; keep it secret, and examine it carefully.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Depressed, worried, blue, and nervous: a good cure for this is work.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Saturn. News is disturbing, but less vital than it seems. Finances active; expenses at home crop up erratically.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Saturn. If you spend money today, you can drive a good bargain. Better day for buying than for selling. Business active.

GEMINI

The Month of January for those

Born May 21 to June 21

December 28 to January 5

This is an exciting week, not without its difficulties. A partner or associate proves obstreperous, and financial worries have you upset. You work best now in secret: this is the time when, for you, "Down to Gehenna or up to the throne, he travels the fastest who travels alone." Friends and associates are annoying, though you yourself seem fairly cheerful, and content to await the passing of the difficulties. This is a time to be conservative in money matters; you cannot now add to your bankroll by aggressive endeavors, but through a partnership you seem to get something good, though it be nothing more than advice. Avoid quarrels and harsh words; work quietly; do not start new ventures, but plug along determinedly at the old, for now, despite the opposition and tension of this week they seem to be developing to your advantage.

January 5 to January 11

There seems to be a lot of people around you this week, some friendly and some not so firendly; but in some way it looks as if your position were being advanced quietly, and without much fanfare, in such a way as to make this week advantageous to you. You yourself are nervous and excitable; and you must hold this tendency in check. Don't yield to an impulse to act without due consideration; there are conflicting advices being offered you, and you will have to pick your way carefully among them. Last week's financial worry seems still with you, but this is straightening out, if you do not allow an attack of the jitters to tangle up both you and your money matters. Avoid emotional things: stick close to reason and logic in all your dealings. You have some interesting and powerful friends, who are trying to do a good deal for you. This is a good time for publicity, though some of it will seem unfavorable; however, it looks very much as if now "every knock is a boost." During this entire month, however, you must avoid quarrels, anger, and disputes, for these react against all your interests. Go ahead with your plans; this is a good week to make long strides, quietly, toward your ambition.

January 11 to January 19

Nervous, excitable, erratic! Phew! A bundle of energies and nerves! Hold yourself in check, or you will find your enthusiasms immersing you in hot water. Things are working for you now—you needn't be in such a pother. Watch out for the famous Gemini excitability, irritability; you have enemies who will be glad to pounce on you, if you give them a chance—but as a matter of fact, your own temperament is this week your own worst enemy. Keep the check-rein on it, and don't let it run away with you. Financial matters seem to be straightening out, and you seem so glad about it that you are heading for extravagance. This is a time for caution in all matters; hold your tongue, and don't be dragooned into hasty agreements. Don't let anyone rush you, though someone will try to—and above all, don't rush yourself. This is like a grade crossing—you won't get hurt if you stop, look, and listen—but don't indulge in any races with the locomotive. You think you are going places, but what's the hurry?

January 19 to January 28

This is a good week, but it calls for co-operation and getting the other fellow's point of view. Publicity is favorable; your friends are helpful, though somewhat extravagant. They are likely to fill you full of optimism at this time—which you should listen to carefully, and act on conservatively. This is a good time to let things come to you, rather than to go out and try to drag them in. You are still pretty nervous and excited about something. You are blessed, however, with good, loyal, and substantial friends, who are cheering for you and helping you more than you may imagine. There is some inclination here to romance, though it doesn't look very favorable: the platonic basis will be best for all things this week—and before you build your castles high, be sure of their foundations. The 'shining palace on the sands' is well enough, but it makes a treacherous residence. Interpret your dreams in terms of earth. A favorable week, on the whole, with perhaps too much enthusiasm: curb it.

GEMINI—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Saturn. Personal matters; finances strained; a friend disappointing. Don't make agreements; avoid quarrels.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Uranus. Vitality low; domestic matters troublesome. Work in secret, and avoid disputes.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. rulers Uranus-Saturn. If you're depressed, don't be surprised, even if you can't figure out why.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Neptune. Partner or associate extravagant and dreamy; keep him within reason. Avoid speculation.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Neptune. Start new ventures; good news comes from afar: act on a proposition received today.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Mars. Active day. Watch out that too much energy doesn't tire you out!

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Mars. Watch finances: you are erratic and likely to be extravagant. Conservatism best.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Venus. Dreams and Romance! Something out of another world, and will probably not get much nearer reality than just that.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Venus. Write, sign papers, lay plans, make agreements. Your interests are well supported.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Mercury. Excursions and alarms! Too much enegry and argumentativeness here.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Mercury. Yesterday's energies produce today's nervousness. Friends are irritating. Don't believe anything you hear.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Moon. Gossip and scandal; disturbing news from afar: women are bothersome today. Avoid them.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Moon. Good social Sunday: have a good time but avoid excesses.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Moon. Active day, but details mar it; get the day's work done, and don't be impatient.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Sun. Partners give good advice; finances confused; a domestic matter is annoying. You can get a lot of things settled today if you keep your head.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Sun. An older person proves advantageous. Don't go into court today—legal matters do not favor you. A proposition from afar seems better than it is.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Mercury. Extravagance today will lead to money troubles; curb expenses; routine matters favored.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Mercury. Somewhat negative day, with extravagant and erratic tendencies. Follow the straight and narrow in all things.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Mercury. Optimistic financial plan. Looks like get-rich-quick-Wallingford offers you a partnership—but watch it, and him.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Venus. You are so full of energy you don't know what to do first. Romance active, but unsatisfactory today—avoid it. Don't commit yourself, especially on paper.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Venus. An eccentric person meets you—watch out for disappointments; some sudden proposition needs careful examination, but merits serious attention.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Pluto. Visitors to the home, or a letter Well, this is all right, so long as there is common sense, and a real idea, behind it.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Pluto. Visitors to the home, or a letter to the home, contains some interesting proposition. This is worth watching.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Write, travel, sign papers: start new ventures: good progressive day.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Jupiter. A private matter comes to your attention, filling you with enthusiasm that may not be all it seems.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25 ruler Jupiter. Active, alert, lots of good things popping around you—but avoid anger and temperamental displays: they'll hurt you more than anyone else.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Active Sunday socially—don't quarrel with your family or friends!

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Saturn. Finances active, but on the expensive side: good day to sell, bad day to buy.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Saturn. Mixture of influences makes this a good day to lie low—gossip, loose talk, and unsound propositions seem to surround you. Domestic irritation.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Uranus. Personal matters can be straightened out very satisfactorily today.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.39 a. m. ruler Uranus. Strong day, with opportunity. Start new ventures for the long pull; seek favors—superiors are kindly to you.

CANCER

The Month of January for those

Born June 21 to July 22

December 28 to January 5

Your best guide during this week is someone with whom you are associated—a partner of some sort—for you yourself at this time are very high strung and nervous, and things are likely to upset you out of all proportion to their importance, or the needs of your circumstances. Uranus influences you strongly now, with his erratic and incalculable ray, and you are likely to feel that things are going wrong, when indeed they are not, except as your own restlessness makes them. Guard your health from worry and over work; there seems to be some disagreement or upset in the department of employment, but you can jockey this situation through successfully if you keep your head and your temper. This is an apparent, rather than a real crisis, and you can get the proper advice for its successful navigation from the associate mentioned at the beginning.

January 5 to January 11

This week the forces around you are considerably more constructive, with some powerful person supporting you in your ambitions. Yet even here there is danger that you will through extreme impatience interfere with the normal development of things. Mars in Libra is beginning to be felt, in filling you with energy and enthusiasms of a very treacherous sort, for this influence is likely to impel you to ill-timed action, as well as to make you angry when it is more to your advantage to preserve the peace. A secret opposition is seeming to retard your progress, but this is a condition that need not hurt you if you do not allow yourself to be trapped into rashness and too-great aggression. This is a good week to lay long-range plans, carefully; to consult with, and seek advice from, friends, partners, and older people; and to get under way anything that you have in mind for later completion.

January 11 to January 19

You are likely now this week, when the quarter-moon is opposition Mars, to excite yourself unduly, to work too hard, to play too hard, and in many ways to endanger your health and contentment through excess.

This is a time to look out for the ebb and flow of energies, which will come quickly, and depart even more quickly, this exhausting you, both nervously and physically, if you try to live up to the maximum of your apparent vitality. Secret enmities are likely to worry you and cause you trouble now; you should not seek under this influence to bring things out in the open, but merely work along quietly, at routine matters. Remember that all during this transit of Mars in Libra you must beware of explosive enthusiasms, which have a tendency to carry you away on the crest of a wave, and then leave you high and dry in a strange and unfriendly land. It's all right to ride the crest, but you ought to be sure you have a life belt along in some good, substantial, realistic program, to take the place of the great enthusiasm if the great enthusiasm should prove groundless. A good week, however, for quiet, and conservative, planning, and work-a-day routine.

January 19 to January 28

Things tend to come out in the open at the new moon, despite the fact that there is still some irritating secret force that is apparently working against you. This is not a time to come to grips with your opponents, for at times like this, the victory is more likely to go to the Achilles who sulks in his tent, than to the Hector that rides boldly out into the open. This is a time for councils and round-table discussions, where your diplomacy will have a chance, rather than for trial by combat. Seek advice, but now you must be careful that what you hear is not too optimistic for your own best interests. Everyone around you is likely to be brimful of enthusiasms, and these may prove costly if they are not carefully examined. Watch extravagance, both in actual money expenditures, and in plans and enterprises. This is a good time to cut your garment to fit your cloth—and to be sure that whatever enterprise you embark on is sound, sane, and realistic.

CANCER—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. rulers Uranus-Saturn. A somewhat depressing and oppressing day. But a good time to get things done, wind up old things; don't start new.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Neptune. Financial worries have you all agog; a partner is extravagant for you. Hold him in check.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Neptune. Look out for highfalutin plans in finance; they are likely to go wrong. Friends are helpful; social matters good, and active.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Mars. Nervous erratic day; guard against quarrels—hold your temper and your tongue, and let the other fellow get into the trouble.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Mars. Today remember "Thou canst not by being anxious add one cubit to thy statue!" Forget your worries and work at routine matters.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Venus. This looks like a socially active, and pleasant, Sunday.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Venus. Start new ventures; push your affairs; get favors of powerful people.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Mercury. A personal, possibly romantic matter, interests you—but this is not likely to be so pleasant in the long run as it may look at the moment.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Mercury. Employment matters active and good; enjoyment at work—or, if you haven't work, this ought to be a good day to look for it.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Moon. You will feel that the world is yours today, a very pleasant feeling. But there is dynamite here—watch out you don't blow up!

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Moon. Partners and superiors difficult: don't be temperamental; people won't like it.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Sun. Gossip, scandal, ill-report, about someone you are associated with. What you hear when the Moon is square Venus is not worth the energy to listen to it: ignore it!

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Sun. Pleasant excitement, and much cheerful to-do in the home. Looks as if you are entertaining, at some expense. Does this keeping-up business pay?

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Sun. Early hours restricted through an associate; but later you're able to get what you want through reasonableness and pleasantness.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler

Mercury. Confusing influence on you; don't try to express yourself: work goes forward.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Mercury. Socially active day; finances good, but extravagant. Go slow in investments.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Venus. You are erratic, incalculable. Avoid antagonizing people. Social matters active.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Venus. You cut up yesterday; a partner relieves you of the duty today. Handle him with kid gloves.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Pluto. Don't write, sign papers, or commit yourself: listen, and believe little.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Pluto. Extravagant, dreamy influence; you seem to be building air castles. Don't sign a lease for them today.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Pluto. A restriction may work to your advantage if you submit to it. Don't rebel today, though some personal matters seem very binding. Work hard in silence.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Jupiter. A secret matter favors you; a friend makes a good proposition. Make decisions.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Somewhat negative day; do only what is necessary, unobtrusively.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Saturn. Finances very strong and favorable; watch expenses; a financial matter comes out well.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Saturn. A friend plans big ventures in which you are involved. Sincere, but unreliable advice.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25. Ruler Saturn. Hold your temper and your tongue, or someone will be holding your head.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Saturn. Domestic matter irritating, but worldly matters good; but tread cautiously.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Uranus. Full of plans, optimism and enthusiasms. You have to be critical of yourself today.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. rulers Uranus-Saturn. Energetic day; personal matters somewhat oppressive; don't make decisions.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Neptune. Partner muddled, and deceptive without meaning to be. You can straighten him out.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Neptune. A private matter is to your advantage; sign papers; reach agreements; a secret eventuates well.

LEO

The Month of January for those

Born July 23 to August 23

December 28 to January 5

There are great emotional forces at work on you this week, some intensification of desire or ambition that is making you high-strung and nervous. You should check sternly all romantic and impulsive ideas, and stick closely to the work in hand: this is a time when your imagination will run so far ahead of actuality and reality that, if you do not guard against it, you may make yourself very discontented. Matters develop slowly but surely now; employment is active, especially employment that deals in writing, publicity, travelling, or dealings at a distance. Correspondence is favored, and you seem profitably involved with persons far away from you. You must however curb your impatience, and hold your visions down to earth, for your romantic and imaginative inclination runs high now, and you are likely to reach farther than you ought—and so lose your balance. This is a good week to further your plans carefully and judiciously, for authorities will be inclined to help you, if you approach them with tact.

January 5 to January 11

Secret matters trouble you, and you should avoid them: advice you get in private at this time is likely to do little more than annoy you. This week, anything that is worth your trouble can be shouted from the housetops, and you should be suspicious of what is furtive and goes on in dark corners. A partner is helpful to your interests, and powerful forces focus themselves to build up a satisfactory foundation for things to come. You are still inclined to let your enthusiasms run away with you, and you should watch this carefully, for about the only way you can get into real difficulties now is to antagonize powerful people with your impatience. Publicity is favorable, and you seem to profit by popularity and good report. This is a good week to start new ventures, contact new people who can be helpful to the furthering of your desires, for your magnetism is high now, directly in proportion to the amount of reserve and restraint you exercise in expressing yourself. Avoid quarrels of an emotional nature; don't tell everything you know, and above all don't heed everything you hear.

January 11 to January 19

Many people gather around you at this time, some of them pretty irritating, and likely to get on your nerves. Avoid intrigue and emotional entanglement: watch out for the members of the opposite sex. You are full of energy, dash, enthusiasm, both mental and physical, but this is deceptive energy, and if you let yourself go to the supposed limit of your abilities, you will exhaust yourself, both emotionally and physically. Don't allow yourself to be drawn into quarrels, or disputes, for even the friendliest of arguments will have a way of getting on the unpleasant side. Employment matters are favored; you seem to get more pleasure out of your work now than out of social matters; and your home takes on a peculiarly glamorous charm. Ventures started now will develop rapidly—in fact, they may develop too rapidly—and in starting them, you must exercise considerable caution and common sense to make sure they are really sound. Be careful of new friends and acquaintances; you may meet someone who cuts a wide swath, but who is not really all that he wants you to think. Suspicion is in order in dealing with all strangers at this time.

January 19 to January 28

Your ambitions have you muddled this week—you seem to know well enough what you want, but to be indeterminate in deciding how to get it. This is a good week to lie low in the matter of making decisions; mental activity is irritating to you, though correspondence and travelling are favored. There seems to be some good news here that works toward the furthering of your plans; enthusiasms, especially in matters of your work, are running high now; you seem to be busy, energetic, and maybe just the least bit too excitable. Curb your enthusiasms at this time: it is better now to let others work for you. You seem well thought of now; conversation and publicity appear to favor you. You may ask favors this week of those in authority, and stand a pretty good chance of getting what you ask. Strangers are still to be viewed with caution; some over-optimistic advice must be discounted heavily. Shrewd common sense will be your best guide in finding the progressive paths of this week.

LEO—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Neptune. Friends give sound advice; you are worried about money matters. A woman is both helpful, and expensive.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Mars. A partner or associate is dynamic and forceful today—his ideas may be good, but his enthusiasm needs the pruning hook.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Mars. Seek favors, powerful men may be approached today; avoid romance and intrigue; they react against your good name.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Venus. Nervous, excitable; don't make decisions till you are calmer. Get odd jobs done.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Venus. Start new ventures, with caution; secret matters upsetting—avoid romance and high-flown dreams. Today the simplest is the best.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Mercury. Social matters active and pleasant; a good Sunday to have people in to see you.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Mercury. You feel depressed, and as if things were going wrong. They will, if you try to force them when you feel like this. Relax.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Moon. Confusing mental and emotional influences are on you; don't make decisions under them.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Moon. Questionable advice from a friend or associate. Someone has some plans for you that you can do without.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Sun. Full of pep; you feel the world is yours. Go slowly in claiming your possession today.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Sun. Routine matters favored, despite your energies and enthusiasms. They'll wait.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Mercury. A woman in your employment environment has a sharp tongue—watch her.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Mercury. Social matters prominent, but you seem extravagant; curb expenses.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Mercury. You can get a lot of work done today; clear up old things. New ventures not favored.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Venus. Personal matters crop up; you have lots of energy today; start new ventures, but deal with tact and caution.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Venus. A personal, secret ambition develops sub rosa today. A partner is ob-streperous; a domestic matter irritating. Avoid quarrels.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Pluto. Authorities favor you; finances strong. Your home is a pleasant place now—stick close to it. A visitor brings a good idea.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Pluto. Work irritates you, but there are certain things you must get done today, and you have plenty of optimism and energy.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Don't write, sign papers, or enter into agreements . . . and take what you hear with a grain of salt.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Too many people around you today, especially women and children, tend to give you the jitters. Hold your temper.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Through careful diplomacy you can make this a progressive day. Conservative plans favored.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Saturn. Financial matters are active, and favorable, if you deal conservatively.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Saturn. An optimistic friend is too enthusiastic for you; your own judgment is best. Watch out for an attack on your credit and position.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Uranus. Personal concerns to the forefront. Write, travel, correspond, seek publicity.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Uranus. Contact people whom you wish to help you; your magnetism is high—use it.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25 ruler Uranus. Vim, pressed down and running over! Don't quarrel; work hard and hold your tongue.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Uranus-Saturn. Don't worry; relax, and don't give in to the jitters. Private matters progress.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Neptune. Finances irritating, an extravagant partner annoys you. Check his expenditures.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Neptune-Jupiter. Depressing news in private. You needn't believe this—it is greatly exaggerated.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Mars. You're skittish as a race horse, and so are those around you. Better stay alone.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Mars. Plans progress, if you can curb your mental energies, and deal with care.

VIRGO

The Month of January for those

Born August 24 to September 23

December 28 to January 5

You will have some domestic and personal problems to cope with this week that will be very trying; there is likelihood of disputes both at home and at business, with a partner or associate, about money matters, and you will have to curb your temper and temperament. Social matters are good, and a business contact does something to further your real ambitions, though the results of this do not come out in the light till a little later. Social activities are good, and through them you meet an influential person, who, if you handle him with tact, will do a good deal for you. Guard your speech and writings carefully; even what is told in confidence now is likely to leak out to your harm, and you should therefore not confide in anyone. Your plans progress better without too much conversation about them, for too much talk can lessen your enthusiasms, and weaken your power to bring things to pass. Direct your energies carefully; be careful of heavy expenditures at home: money tends to slip through your fingers, and you should therefore be tight-fisted.

January 5 to January 11

An erratic influence developing in your department of business and professional standing and credit, needs careful and tactful handling this week, and also for the next two weeks. A romantic, or too dreamy or optimistic attitude is hurting your business judgment and sagacity; you seem to be in danger of a swelled head, or of dwelling on large schemes that you can't find the proper method of realizing. At the same time you are somewhat erratic, and so are your bosses; you should not be disappointed now if you apparently don't make much headway with them, for this is a very bad time for you to seek favors and advancement. On the other hand, under cover of silence and hard work, you can accomplish a lot that will later redound to your credit; but don't be surprised or hurt if you seem to be doing all the work now, without getting any of the credit. New things that come up now will not develop smoothly or rapidly, but if you jockey them along, they are very likely to pay out later. This is a jittery influence, both at home and in your world of business, and it will be much to your advantage to be philosophic about it and not let it get on your nerves.

January 11 to January 19

The full force of the skittish condition of your superiors descends this week, and you seem to be at the focal point of it. You can either make this into an explosion, or quietly extinguish the fuse—all depending on whether you elect to lose your temper, or remain calm in the face of all the nervousness and excitement around you. This is a good time to refuse to engage in argument—let the other fellow have his way (especially if he is in authority over you!) no matter how foolish you think his way to be now. He is all wound up for a fight, and you can't sell him your ideas at this time. Give in gracefully, with your tongue in your cheek (only don't let him see it there) and your time will come later. The best way to make people eat out of your hand is to feed them what they like . . . and this man doesn't like to be opposed now; and you can get nothing but headaches by butting your head against this stone wall.

January 19 to January 28

Financial, domestic, and business worries all seem to have you in their grip this week—which is the end of a very trying month. You'll tend now to spend too much money, not because you have to, but just through sheer desire to relax and "get away from it all." Be sure you don't spend so much as to cause yourself other worries. This business difficulty is passing; you have only to hold your tongue, and your temper, this week, and it will be past. Meanwhile, there is good hard-boiled advice for you through some one in your home; this may not be what you like to hear, but it's good for you all the same, and whatever you do, don't quarrel at home now. Something of a social nature is pleasant—looks like a little dash of romance. A partner will help you save money if you will listen to him (or her). Avoid nerves, worry, fretfulness, and irritability, for these will hurt your judgment and lead you to do and say the wrong thing. Work along, and let future developments take care of themselves.

VIRGO—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Mars. Excitable, overoptimistic day; social matters pleasant, but unreliable.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Venus. Favorable for writing, publicity, correspondence, and traveling.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Venus. A partner is helpful; some one at a distance is favoring you; an apparent restriction in business redounds to your advantage.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Mercury. Your temperament runs high and does you no good. Take out this energy in having a good time, or in routine work.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Mercury. Employment matters favorable; new work comes to hand, to your profit.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Moon. Active social day at home; lots of people—too many for your peace of mind; relax.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Moon. Erratic and stubborn superiors irritate you; keep out of their road.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Sun. Annoyances at work give you the jitters; petty bickerings and criticisms. Ignore them as much as you can, and do the day's work.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Sun. Avoid publicity and writing; don't commit yourself or sign papers. Your home is your best base of operations.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Mercury. You're pretty extravagant and enthusiastic today. Better save that money.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Mercury. Plenty of good times today, for which someone else seems to be paying. You hear unreliable news through a woman.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Venus. Treason, stratagems, and spoils! This is a treacherous day, when your emotions are likely to throw you entirely off the track.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Venus. Bursting with energy, and determined to spend your money. O. K., if you have plenty!

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Venus. An associate in business needs to be handled like a nervous racehorse. You can make him harmless if you speak and act with great reserve.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Pluto. Things progress for you under cover, and you are optimistic. Don't force issues.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Pluto. Mental work fortunate, and there seems to be plenty at hand. Dig into it!

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Jupiter. A quarrelsome or very dynamic friend contacts you; a relative gives good advice. Keep your temper under both circumstances!

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Good day to relax and go to a picture show. You're pretty high strung.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Saturn. Explosive influence in business, but it doesn't seem to hurt you, if you don't voluntarily get yourself into it.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Saturn. You seem to be spending a lot on pleasure, despite the fact that you are worried about money. You should make up your mind: either spend and be broke, or save and don't worry. It's up to you.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Saturn. Much optimism around you in business, but you're still money-conscious. You'll get good value for what you spend today. Buy, don't sell.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Uranus. Full of dash and enthusiasm, and this is as good a day as any in a long time for you to push both personal and business affairs, if they must be pushed at all this week.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Uranus-Saturn. Depressed and nervous, despite the fact that people think well of you.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Neptune. Private and secret matters very good; work alone and quietly.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Neptune. Don't explode with all you know today; keep it to yourself till it's complete.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25 ruler Neptune. Very dynamic day, but a partner spends your money freely. Hold your temper.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Neptune. Lots of friends around you; you seem to be popular.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Mars. Partnership and cooperation in business advance you today. Make compromises.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Mars. Eccentric, optimistic influence; unreliable information and advice. Put on the brakes.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Venus. Hard work on petty matters and details makes this a progressive day.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Venus. Seek favors and advancement; powerful people will listen to your ideas today.

LIBRA

The Month of January for those
Born September 24 to October 23

December 28 to January 5

This week you are mentally excitable; you are likely to both give and receive bad advice. Don't write, or correspond, or sign papers under this influence; your judgment is erratic, and the propositions that will come to you, or that you will make, now must be carefully scrutinized, both for accuracy and dependability. This is not so much a treacherous influence, as it is an erratic and too-hasty one: the pace of everything now is quickened, and you'll have to think fast to keep up with it. Superiors are eccentric now, with some danger to your position if you lock horns with them this week. A woman associate gives you sound, conservative advice in financial fields, which you should heed, rather than your own impetuous judgment at this time. Don't inaugurate new ventures this week; lie low and wait for a more opportune moment. Cooperation is the keynote of progress now.

January 5 to January 11

Your home appears this week to be the center of your most pleasant and profitable activities; associations there are to your advantage. New ventures of a conservative nature may be started, but more romantic, high-flown schemes are in danger of toppling over of their own weight. Associations are profitable and progressive, if you keep them on a strictly business basis; don't try at this time to mix business with pleasure. A female friend at a distance seems to cause some excitement, not entirely of a pleasant nature. Don't be drawn into arguments or quarrels. Lots of people are around you, and your somewhat-too-aggressive mental quickness at this time can get you into trouble if you aren't careful.

January 11 to January 19

This is the week when you should get under cover and stay there; all the independent, self-assertive qualities in your nature will be clamoring for recognition, and if you recognize them and give them rein, they'll run away with you. You are high-strung, mentally alert, impatient to the point of quarrelsomeness, and you should carefully count to a hundred before you say anything—and then keep still. This is a week when, as they say to the accused: "anything you say will be used against you," and under these trying circumstances it is well to say as little as possible. Be silent but alert; and at the same time that you talk little, listen much . . . and judge shrewdly the worth of what you hear. Much of it will be worthless. You will do well, for your own best interests, to take your direction and methods this week from the conservative people around you, some of whom are a good deal calmer and more patient than you are, and can act as an admirable balance for your present "rugged individualism." News comes your way which you would rather not hear; don't let this unnerve you. Women especially are troublesome now; avoid letting them influence your judgment to too rash enterprises.

January 19 to January 28

This week begins a period of financial extravagance and optimism that may run away with you; curb expenditures; you are excitable and likely to buy what you don't need and can't use. Some very tempting, romantic financial proposition looks good for the moment—almost too good to be true, and it probably is. Examine the practical basis of everything this week, especially those things that you wish were true, and which appeal to your romantic sense of the fitness of things: for this is no time to play hunches: they're probably all wrong. With the Sun square Uranus, all kinds of wild notions will be flying around you—hair-brained inventions, schemes, plans, and programs of progress, a good many of which will progress only backwards. In this connection, a younger associate will give you good advice. There is great, almost undue, optimism around you at home, where some enthusiast is elated over the progress of his plans, which in some way involve you. It is possible that this will come through, in a measure, though not in the glittering measure that it is presented to you: the pot of gold at the end of this rainbow is considerably smaller than you are given reason to believe, if indeed there is gold in it at all. In any case, don't spend this money till you have it in your hands. Avoid nervousness, excitability, and displays of temperament; strive for poise, calm and reserve.

LIBRA—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Venus. Correspondence, writing, favored; restriction in business; don't force.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Mercury. Emotional tension high; avoid romance; expenditures heavy.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Mercury. Somewhat negative day; employment and routine duties proceed nicely. Get things done.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Moon. Don't fight with your wife (or husband)—an upsetting influence at home. Skip it.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Moon. Bosses are erratic—therefore steer clear of them. Social matters pleasanter than business dealings under this egis.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Sun. Mentally alert; your home is pleasant today: sit by the fire and make plans.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Sun. A partner is being heavy-handed, conflicting and romantic advices should be ignored. Don't worry under this—use up your energy in work.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.38 a. m. ruler Mercury. A confusing intangible influence obscures your judgment; don't commit yourself.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Mercury. Optimistic, romantic—lots of what you believe and imagine today isn't true at all—put the damper on those fires of enthusiasm.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Venus. Romantic and explosive influence—the will-o'-the-wisp becomes a roaring flame. Don't let it burn you, either with excitement, sentiment, or anger.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Venus. An eccentric partner upsets you so that you're bad tempered even at home. Hold your tongue, preferably in your cheek—this is something to laugh off.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Pluto. A woman at home, or a younger person, is disturbing; routine work favored.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Pluto. Feeling good today, though serious-minded. Exuberance gives way to conservatism as the day wears on. Don't fatigue yourself in the early afternoon.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Pluto. Depressed condition at home; don't try to force issues today.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Jupiter. Confusing conditions in your business life; don't trust everyone today.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Jupiter. If there is something that must be begun, or forced, this week, today is the day to do it. But do it cautiously.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Saturn. If you pushed things too hard yesterday, they may run away from you today. Don't ask favors, or seek advancement. Finances fair, but lavish.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Saturn. Things go wrong; home conditions erratic. You can control this, and other things, with poise and calm.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Uranus. Active day for personal matters; correspondence and publicity favored. Write, travel.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Uranus—Unreliable influences; believe little, say less, don't commit yourself at all.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Uranus-Saturn. Depressed, blue, worried, nervous, and cross! Blue Monday with a vengeance.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Neptune. Private matters develop; business quiet; a partner a little confusing. Work in secret.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Neptune. Worried about money, especially the extravagance of a partner. Check him, tactfully.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Mars. Friends helpful; and there are lots of them around you. Seek advice.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Mars. Something wished for may come to you today, if you don't hurry things too much.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. ruler Mars. You're too pepped up for your own good. Turn off the steam! Don't quarrel with a partner, or you'll regret it later.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Mars. Nervous, excitable, eccentric. avoid mental irritation and worry. Get plenty of sleep.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Venus. Advance in your position through a helpful partner: seek favors; authorities favor you.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Venus. This is either excessive optimism, or yesterday's affairs have made your hat too small. A good day to practice the virtues of Moderation and Humility.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Mercury. Domestic influence confusing; social and romantic matters active and somewhat good.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Mercury. Good news from afar—a distant matter develops favorably. Write, correspond, seek publicity.

SCORPIO

The Month of January for those
Born October 24 to November 22

December 28 to January 5

Financial matters are trying this week: you tend to spend too much, and to be consequently worried about your financial status. You are active in matters of employment, though in this department everything does not run smoothly; you have some heavy-handed associate who is apparently holding you back, and there is danger of unpleasantness and bickering in connection with employment and money matters. Do not try during this week to force your way through an unforceable situation; be conservative and tactful. A younger woman in your employment environment seems to give you good advice, or in some way to point out a very desirable path of activity for you; and relatives also seem helpful. You should try to jockey through this week as economically as possible, and avoid worry about all things, for worry now will have a deleterious effect on your health. Guard your health in all ways, from anxiety and overwork.

January 5 to January 11

This week of the new moons finds you in a good position to make some important decisions, and lay the groundwork for new ventures. Some communication, letter, or advice crops up with a proposition that merits serious consideration: don't jump to conclusions, or act in haste at this time, especially where your income is concerned. You are eager and enthusiastic in money matters, but you mustn't let yourself go too fast. It looks as if you have a lot of routine, and pretty dull, jobs to do, and as if these appear restrictive to you. Well, one way or another you've got to get this over with, and you might as well do it with a smile; if you don't do it with a smile, you'll do it anyway and just make it that much harder. Your mentality is clear and logical now, and you should be able to think things through to the logical and progressive conclusion. The financial dealings of a partner are bothering you, and you should watch them closely: some bad judgment is at work here, the result of a too enthusiastic and romantic outlook on business matters. Your common sense ought to be able to checkmate this danger, but you will have to be clever to avoid a quarrel.

January 11 to January 19

The exuberant partner-in-finances becomes even more enthusiastic this week, and consequently you will have to watch out for financial loss, not only through his excitement, but through your own as well. You're trying to rush things too fast, and you aren't timing your aggression correctly. Sit down, take a long breath, and then start again, slowly. Things seem to be developing favorably, but the speed isn't what you wish it to be; still it is all the traffic will bear, and you'll crash a red light and land before the judge if you don't curb your pace. This is the time when the more haste the less speed, and when, if you go too fast, you're likely to find, much to your surprise, that you're going backwards. Work hard, and quietly; take care of the details and the big things will take care of themselves.

January 19 to January 28

Private concerns, possibly of a business nature, are uppermost in your mind this week; and that matter of your excitable partner with the dangerous money ideas looks as if it were going to be straightened out sub rosa, though not without some argument and unpleasantness. Hold your temper in dealing with other people, and you will get more out of them. A younger friend is contributing to your advance; someone connected with you in matters of employment proves helpful. You are still inclined to extravagance, both financial and emotional; and your optimism seems to be growing by leaps and bounds . . . despite which it should be kept within bounds. Your position is helped by your own hard work, even though it involves some factors that you think you could do without. Your magnetism is strong at this time, but you should not try to live up to the full measure of your imagination and dreams: some of them at least are both impractical and expensive.

SCORPIO—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4:20 a. m. ruler Mercury. Lots of hard work today for apparently little advance. Avoid financial dealings with, or for, others.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5:41 a. m. ruler Moon. A domestic flare-up—this happens in the best regulated houses—skip it!

Jan. 3—Commencing 6:45 a. m. ruler Moon. Good advice from an associate good social day: professional and business dealings skittish.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7:57 a. m. ruler Sun. You are upset in your mind over a lot of things; try to avoid arguments and making decisions. Routine tasks can be cleared up.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8:43 a. m. ruler Sun. You'll lose today if you go to court; avoid quarrels at work; home pleasant.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9:15 a. m. ruler Mercury. Looks like a social Sunday with lots of relatives. Eat, drink, and be merry.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9:39 a. m. ruler Mercury. An associate has high financial aspirations, but you can hold him in today.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9:58 a. m. ruler Venus. Full of energy, but it is likely to be confused and misdirected. This looks like a good day for doing as little as possible.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10:15 a. m. ruler Venus. Financial matters look good, but you get conflicting advices. A friend has better ideas than a partner today. Avoid decisions.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10:30 a. m. ruler Pluto. A secret, or private annoyance unnerves you; avoid quarrels.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10:45 a. m. ruler Pluto. Conflicting advice put you on the spot; a letter bothers you. You hear unreliable news.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11:04 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Believe nothing and say less; consider carefully the source and motive of your information.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11:25 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Finances pretty active for a Sunday; a secret matter enthuses you, more than it ought.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11:53 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Depressed, nervous—but you feel better as the day wears on. Looks as if you got out of bed on the wrong side, and wore your grouch off early.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12:29 p. m. ruler Saturn. A dynamic person in authority favors you; seek advice and assistance, but be reserved: this person likes to be flattered.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1:17 p. m. ruler Saturn. Bickering at home—looks as if money might be involved in this. A communication favors you.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2:15 p. m. ruler Uranus. Personal matters occupy you; you contact a relative to some advantage.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3:22 p. m. rulers Uranus-Saturn. A superior adds a cheerful note to a nervous day. Hold your tongue and listen.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4:32 p. m. ruler Neptune. Don't commit yourself today in any way—and take what you hear with at least two grains of salt.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5:43 p. m. ruler Neptune. A partner confuses you; your optimism and enthusiasm is too high.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6:53 p. m. ruler Neptune. Routine matters favored; a secret restriction hampers you; finances worry you. The best antidote for worry is WORK!

Jan. 22—Commencing 8:03 p. m. ruler Mars. Rather negative day; friends surround you with good cheer; good social activities.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9:12 p. m. ruler Mars. Both you and those around you are high-strung, nervous. Don't drive a willing horse to death!

Jan. 24—Commencing 10:19 p. m. ruler Venus. Push your plans, seek advancement and favors; authorities incline to you now.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Venus. Sign papers, make recommendations, suggest plans: they will be well received.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11:30 p. m. Jan. 25. You're riding pretty hard; watch out you don't try too high a hurdle and come a cropper today.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12:42 a. m. ruler Venus. Nervous and excitable Sunday. Good day to work it off in exercise, in moderation.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1:59 a. m. ruler Mercury. You are full of enthusiasm and self-confidence. Don't be misled by a letter.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3:16 a. m. ruler Mercury. Imaginative, romantic, and dreamy . . . but this dream seems to have wings of wax.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4:32 a. m. ruler Moon. Confusing mental attitude endangers your standing: avoid decisions today.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5:38 a. m. ruler Moon. A partner has sound ideas; domestic matters tense. Wind up old deals; conservative financial dealings and partnerships favored.

SAGITTARIUS

The Month of January for those

Born November 23 to December 21

December 28 to January 5

This is a very energetic week for those born under Sagittarius. You are full of vitality, forceful and aggressive. Financial matters are active, and somewhat favorable; yet under the egis of Mars, which is filling you brim-full of enthusiasm, there is danger of overstepping the bounds of good sense, and you should therefore watch all your dealings closely. There is some danger to your health, through over-work and an attempt to drive yourself faster than you ought to; matters of the affections and the emotions are disturbing, also; you should avoid romance and intrigue, though there will be plenty of it around you. Be careful how you take advice at this time; though it is well-intentioned yet it is likely to encourage you in too-forceful action. Don't sign papers, reach important decisions, or commit yourself any more than you have to, this week; and discount reports that come to you. A good week for skepticism, both regarding your own powers, and the advices and plans that come to you from others. It won't pay you to be too trusting or sanguine under these aspects.

January 5 to January 11

New and independent financial and business ventures may be started now; new enterprises gotten under way. But you will have to go at everything with the check-rein tightly drawn, for now your tendency to rush headlong will get you into trouble if you give it full sway. A matter of the affections is troublesome; be sure it does not affect your judgment adversely, and interfere with your tactful dealings with other people. An interesting business proposition warrants careful consideration; a woman or younger person offers good advice; social activities prove somehow to your advantage, and contribute to your progress. This is a good time to meet people, for the likelihood is that you will meet among them someone influential who will be helpful to you. But all these favorable results depend on your using your energies with reserve: don't try to turn on the full force of your personality and magnetism; keep a reserve supply for other people to feel, rather than hear and see.

Anger, temper, and temperament go against you now, while poise and calm lead your energies into constructive channels.

January 11 to January 19

This is a somewhat dangerous week; a partner becomes very obstreperous, and needs to be handled with kid gloves, at the same time that you yourself need careful jockeying. Looks as if the irresistible force were meeting the immovable body, with explosive results. Be careful that your plans don't blow up in the smoke of a quarrel with some powerful person; this is merely a passing thing, and it would be too bad if you gave it a permanently harmful twist through anger, impatience, or stubbornness. Don't quarrel at this time; keep calm and hold everything! Don't let your business sense be hampered by personal, or emotional, considerations: a woman is dangerous to you, if you allow yourself to be swayed by her whims. This is a sort of Samson-and-Delilah configuration: be sure you aren't wheedled or forced into a situation where you'll be hampered and restricted in your activities. Get through this week with tact and cleverness, rather than by main strength; you may win at a conference table, but a pitched battle will go against you.

January 19 to January 28

Friends, partners, associates, sweethearts—in fact everyone, including yourself—is high strung, nervous, and skittish this week—but you seem able to control the situation through a continuation of last week's watchful waiting and passive resistance. Do not try to form new contacts at this time; other people don't do you much good, and your dealings with the public are likely to be strained, or erratic and unreliable. Don't seek publicity, though your high energies now will no doubt bring you somehow to the notice of others. Be sure that the notice they take of you is favorable. This is a somewhat good time for the carrying on of purely personal and independent projects, and for developing plans that you can see through yourself, without either help or interference from anyone else. Writing and correspondence favored.

SAGITTARIUS—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Moon. Publicity unfavorable, despite your optimism. Avoid contacting superiors; they're hard to manage today.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Sun. Energetic, mentally and physically alert; conflicting advices need careful analysis; avoid haste in decision, action and speech.

Jan. 3—Commencing 3.45 a. m. ruler Sun. A partner curbs your enthusiasms; swallow your pride: this is sound counsel.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Mercury. Financial plunging goes wrong today; save your money—you'll pay too much for your whistle today.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Mercury. Begin new enterprises today; good conservative auspices back them.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9:15 a. m. ruler Venus. Looks as if plenty of visitors will come to your home today. Entertain; enjoy yourself.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Venus. Curb impatience today; don't be depressed; attend to routine duties.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Pluto. Travel, write, correspond; a friend has good ideas, though a little unusual. Consider them.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Pluto. Restriction in the home; you are nervous and irritable. Speak softly; tread cautiously.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Quarrelsome people around you—don't be one of the two that it takes to make an argument.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Jupiter. A financial matter is luring, but unsound. Emotions tense; don't be misled by them.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Saturn. Social matters expensive; you appear to spend too much for show today. Finances treacherous.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Saturn. Your home isn't as peaceful today as it was last Sunday, but social matters seem so active as to wear you out. Conserve your energies.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Saturn. Today is a good day to remember Franklin's advice "Never buy what you do not need because it is cheap."

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Uranus. Bursting with energy, plans, enthusiasms. A big deal has you all excited; this may involve something at a distance; develop it, but with moderate speed.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Uranus-Saturn. A secret annoyance depresses you; yesterday's enthusiasm makes way for today's gloom. You are erratic; avoid decisions, and plug along.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Neptune. A partner is doing odd things with your money; watch his operations today; be tactful.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Neptune. Finances all mixed up; you should avoid expenditures and investments today as you would the plague.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Mars. Bad counsel from a friend; be skeptical today, and don't talk any more than you have to.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Mars. Quarrels, gossip, mar today; don't listen to what people tell you; tongues are wagging at both ends today, and neither end is saying anything important.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 a. m. ruler Mars. You are nervous and eccentric today; a good time to attend strictly to business; avoid worry.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Venus. Friends surround you helpfully, and with good advice; authorities favor you; seek advancement; this day is like an oasis in the desert, for the week is not generally so good.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Venus. Rather negative day: a partner is too optimistic for your best interests.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Mercury. Correspondence, writing and travelling favored; pursue private enterprises.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Mercury. You're likely to go too hard today in the pursuit of pleasure. What's the rush?

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25 ruler Mercury. All steamed up! Be sure the safety valve is working; there is danger here.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Moon. Tense and nervous; people annoy you; stay by yourself; avoid quarrels.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Moon. Financial optimism of an associate will tangle you up if you let it. Be skeptical.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Moon. The pot of gold at the end of this rainbow is fool's gold; don't waste your time.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Sun. Money matters confused; a sane associate helps you. Correspondence and writing disturbing.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Sun. Energetic and forceful day; lay new plans, start new ventures. Domestic matters pleasant, but expensive.

CAPRICORN

The Month of January for those
Born December 22 to January 19

December 28 to January 5

Private and secret matters are unprofitable, and personally upsetting this week; avoid intrigue, and secrets. A confusion of forces are at work on you, and you alternate between elation and depression, with an eccentric partner interfering with your work and generally getting you upset. Emotional matters are restrictive now; you are disappointed in someone or something, and being yourself highstrung and having a lot on your mind, you are likely to be erratic and unreliable; your judgment is likely to be faulty, and hasty. Above all, avoid mysteries and secrets; anything worth listening to now you won't have to go into a star-chamber session to hear, and you can make up your mind that whatever is told you in dark corners, and "in strict confidence" isn't worth wasting your time with; it will only upset you, and nothing pleasant will come of it anyway. This looks as if you were offered a bribe, or in some way tempted to a very unsafe course of procedure, which you should avoid. There is some enmity around you, and you will do well to be not only like Caesar's wife, above suspicion, but even above the suspicion of suspicion. Tread the straight and narrow, and tread it with caution, at that.

January 5 to January 11

Avoiding worry will avoid illness for you this week; romantic matters are very unfavorable; your home is active, and for the most part pleasant, but there is a disturbing factor in some younger person. This is a bad month for you to start new ventures, but if something must be started this month, this is the time to do it, though it will develop slowly and with difficulty, and will need an infinite amount of jockeying. Despite your optimism, don't expect too quick results; employ your well known skepticism and avoid the too exuberant path. Secret matters are still dangerous: you should work quietly, but in the open. A letter or message from a distance is favorable; a visitor to your home has interesting, and possibly profitable, news for you; an emotional obstruction is disappearing. Your home is your best base of operations, and a good deal of your world seems to come to you there. Friendships are pleasant, and social activities, of a quiet sort, should bring you a lot of pleasure.

January 11 to January 19

Enmity will flare out this week—be on your guard against it. Someone in your employment environment will bear watching for emotional unreliability, if not treachery, toward you; an erratic and skittish subordinate needs to be put in his place; but do this tactfully, or he may do you more harm than you do him. There are lots of odd jobs for you to do, and they get on your nerves; hold your tongue, keep your temper: tantrums go against you now, and your health is in danger if you overdo, either physically, or emotionally. Business matters are strained; you get erratic and unreliable advice—rely on yourself at this time, for your own judgment is best. Don't be stamped into hasty action; consider every move carefully—and you may find it most advisable to stand still and not move at all.

January 19 to January 28

The last week of a trying month finds everyone hard to deal with. Superiors are erratic and difficult to handle; don't seek their favor, for they aren't listening to you right now. It looks to you as if you are getting more than your share of dull and irritating odd jobs, but stick this out as cheerfully as you can; it won't last forever. You are protected from secret enmity now by someone in your domestic environment; there is a lot of optimism around you at home—perhaps more than the circumstances warrant—and your tendency to doubt is a good antidote for it, though it, on the other hand, is cheering to your somewhat irritated and nervous mood. Try to steer a middle course between elation and depression—between inertia and the jitters. You seem to have some good helpful friends, but they don't seem to you to be helping much just now. Anyway, they make your world a more pleasant place than if you were left to yourself now with your worries. Avoid overwork, fatigue, and nervousness—this difficulty is about past.

CAPRICORN—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Sun. Work a day sort of day, somewhat depressed and slow. Avoid mental fatigue.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Mercury. Extravagant financial influence; don't buy. Social matters active, and profitable.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Mercury. Negative day; you can make decisions, but you can't do much about them now.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Venus. Energy boiling over; don't fight. Private and secret matters disturbing. Guard against excess emotionalism.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Venus. A nervous partner goes berserk, but you can steady him down if you don't let him get on your nerves.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Pluto. Make plans, but don't expect them to materialize at once. Be wary of advice.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Pluto. Your energy may run ahead of you too fast today; you're nervous—don't work too hard. Depressing domestic or personal influence. Fight it off.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Business matters are confused; too many people are getting on your nerves; seek seclusion.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Financial worries have you in their grip; social matters expensive; avoid them.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Saturn. Keep away from your superior officers today; they'd just as lief snap your head off as not—maybe liefer. Don't ask favors or seek advancement.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Saturn. Your own personal life is confused, upset; you feel today that the world ought to look good, but it doesn't. Relax and forget your troubles.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Uranus. Unpleasant talk surrounds you—pay no attention to it; work in silence.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Uranus. A secret matter seems favorable, but has grave dangers. Avoid intrigue.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. rulers Uranus-Saturn. Depressed, worried, nervous, cross, and irritable. Strict attention to the details of your work will offset a lot of this.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Neptune. Energetic and forceful day, but there is a confusing condition in a partner, and things refuse to come out into the open. Don't force them.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Neptune. Privately you can straighten out a financial worry today, but this is a matter for great caution; a friend is erratic; check him.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Mars. Business and partnership under a serious strain. Cooperate, at no matter what cost.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Mars. Stressful day in all departments—better take in a movie—it'll save you trouble.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Venus. A partner is too optimistic and exuberant; his plans have flaws in them.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Venus. Gossip, scandal, ill-report around you. Don't believe a word you hear, and avoid giving anyone a chance to disbelieve you.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Venus. Don't try to get anything out of superiors today; good day to attend to routine.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Mercury. Correspond, write, travel; social matters active—don't exhaust yourself having a good time.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Mercury. Negative day; a friend is radical; employment matters somewhat favored.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Moon. Through a partner, a financial deal comes your way; business favorable and active.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Moon. Sell, don't buy; this is an extravagant influence—a "seller's market."

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25. Ruler Moon. Excess energy will make you too aggressive today for your own good; your superiors are easily irritated—avoid them, and work hard.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Moon. You are too irritable to stay around the house today—take a long walk!

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Sun. Optimism and loose talk in money and business matters—avoid decisions.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Sun. An associate is very critical, with a this - hurts - me - more - than - it - does - you attitude. You can listen to this, and it won't hurt you a bit—if you don't take it seriously.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Mercury. Good day for work; details must be wound up however little you like them.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Mercury. Financial matters to the fore—looks as if you spend a lot of money—and have a lot of fun.

AQUARIUS

The Month of January for those

Born January 20 to February 18

December 28 to January 5

Friendships are troublesome this week, and you are likely to have quarrels with those around you. You have some fairly well defined aims and aspirations now, but they meet with obstacles that you have difficulty in overcoming. This is a very energetic and enthusiastic week for you and those around you; many plans are in the air, but this is not a time to force their development. A communication is interesting, and may work out well in the long run, though now it is mainly troublesome. A domestic matter is restricting and bothering you, but this is a situation that is rapidly passing into the discard, and you can afford to ignore it. A financial matter of a secret nature favors you, though this is no time to plunge. Dealings of a conservative and cautious nature go forward nicely. But above all things this week, avoid expressing yourself too freely: listen, and take what you hear with several grains of salt, at that. You get lots of advice, most of it worthless.

January 5 to January 11

Mentally active, alert, full of plans and schemes: you'll have to curb these enthusiasms before they'll do you any good, in spite of the fact that some exuberant friend is egging you on. New ventures started quietly, even secretly, this week, are favored, rather than the big splurge. You are emotionally excited over a lot of things, but you should exercise a great deal of reserve, and be careful to whom you confide your plans. You are your own best counsellor and advisor at this time, and things that you conduct privately stand a good chance of ultimate success, though the results may not show at the moment. This is a good week for you to sign papers, enter into agreements, draw up and conclude contracts and business deals of all sorts that you expect to last for some time. This week also you may expect to see the last of a domestic restriction that has been troubling you. Avoid romance, intrigue, and entanglements of all sorts; other people now do you more harm than good, while you can be a Lone Wolf to good advantage.

January 11 to January 19

Imaginative, romantic, and excitable! Don't let your imagination run away with your commonsense. You are confused and erratic this week, and should not make any more decisions than you absolutely have to. Some letter or correspondence has you worried, although the import of it does not appear to touch you personally. You should postpone anything important, now, until a more favorable period, for the focus of forces around you is such that if you rush into anything you are likely to make the wrong decision. Don't be too aggressive under this influence; lie low; avoid arguments and quarrels with friends (and sweethearts too, for that matter) for this is a very excitable influence, when disagreements are likely to arise even between the best of friends. Don't give them a chance. Attend to routine matters as much as you can, and try not to start new ventures, no matter what the temptation may be to do so.

January 19 to January 28

The erratic Uranian ray that made last week so hectic is still in force from the department of emotions, but now Mars in the department of aspirations, hopes, wishes, and friends, receives the friendly aspects of Mercury and Venus from the third house, and therefore your plans go forward smoothly, despite the fact that you are still inclined to be turbulent and eccentric in your thinking. You are likely now to get some hard-boiled advice from a friend that may do a great deal to counteract your own rather upset and indeterminate state. Avoid emotionalism and sentimental attachments at this time; you are sensitive and likely both to hurt, and to be hurt, if you indulge in romance at this time. A secret matter seems to be coming into the open, filling you with optimism. Don't let your enthusiasms run away with you; keep your feet solidly on terra firma; things seem to be developing nicely for you if you do not upset them with badly-timed action, and too great impatience.

AQUARIUS—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Mercury. Personal matters to the fore: a good social day with plenty of optimism.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Venus. You are very energetic and enterprising; financial matters are favored.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Venus. A partner is erratic; a woman at home is upsetting your peace of mind. This is only a passing disturbance; ignore it.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Pluto. Worried over private matters. Bad day to sign papers or enter into agreements; lie low, and guard your speech and writings.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Pluto. Very progressive day for you; start new ventures. A depressing influence in the home is of little importance beside your optimism and good spirits.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Active social Sunday, somewhat expensive . . . and also somewhat irritating. Keep your temper.

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Jupiter. You are depressed and worried, though things come your way today. Do routine jobs, and avoid nervousness and worry.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Saturn. A friend offers advice that you must view carefully. Weigh all sides of this.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Saturn. Finances trouble you; conservatism is favored; budget your income today: you'll be able to get a lot for your money today.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Uranus. An erratic and explosive mental influence; legal matters adverse.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Uranus. Postpone decisions, don't write or sign papers. Today silence is golden.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Neptune. Unpleasant secret matters, possibly scandal, comes to your attention. Ignore it.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Neptune. This is the time when the dream is too good to be true . . . and isn't. Keep your feet on the ground.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Neptune. Lots of helpful people are around you; you're depressed, but shouldn't be.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m. ruler Mars. You're feeling pretty good today—don't dance so hard that you step on someone's toes.

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Mars. Bursting over with energy! Your position is strong if you don't upset it with over-enthusiasm.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Venus. Employment matters to the fore, but don't push too hard. Take it easy; everything is all right.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Venus. Help through an associate; you get good sound advice. Avoid secret matters.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Mercury. This is the day to believe nothing and nobody, not even yourself.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Mercury. Good Sunday to stay at home; social matters good. Looks like a flirtation.

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Mercury. Vitality low—you're feeling depressed. Relax, and take it easy.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Moon. Negative day; social activities pleasant but unimportant.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Moon. Home and professional matters both under some tension; an associate helps.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Sun. Partnership is favored; enter agreements, make deals, sign papers.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Sun. Very optimistic influence is on you today; domestic expenses likely to be heavy—watch them.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. Jan. 25. Ruler Sun. Energy high, and well supported. You can go ahead with your plans with courage.

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Sun. You're inclined to have eccentric ideas today; avoid disputes.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Mercury. Plans prosper; go forward with them, but try not to be too aggressive.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Mercury. Deceit in your employment environment; don't believe all your hear, and say as little as possible in reply.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Venus. Social and personal matters active; guard against nervousness and irritability.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Venus. You are all pepped up over something that is developing. Don't spoil it with haste.

PISCES

The Month of January for those
Born February 19 to March 20

December 28 to January 5

Financial and business matters have you worried this week; you are concerned about your income, and also fearful about your job. Your superiors are quick and snappy, and do not seem favorably inclined to you; well, you can make this condition a whole lot worse by becoming fretful and irritable under it—and you can make it a whole lot better by keeping your own counsel, holding your tempers, and working along in silence. You are emotionally erratic, too, and likely to fly off the handle and do something eccentric, to the detriment of your good name; extravagance in the name of pleasure is indicated, probably as an antidote to the somewhat depressed feeling you have now. Your friends are loyal; seek their company; a woman or female friend gives you good financial advice which you should follow. Don't begin new schemes this week.

January 5 to January 11

Aside from tension due to emotional factors, this is a fairly good week for you; your plans appear to develop; business matters, though still strained in the matter of your superiors, are a little better if you work quietly under cover. Don't seek favors, but you may now formulate business plans for the gratification of your wishes which have a good chance of materializing—but slowly. A domestic matter causes emotional tension; a younger person seems to stir up trouble in your home, through your own somewhat touchy nature, at this time. Avoid yielding to excessive sensitiveness and dreaminess—the only things worth worrying about now are the solid, hard-boiled, practical plans; the hazy dreams go glimmering. Keep your feet on the ground, both in your plannings and in your emotions.

January 11 to January 19

Domestic matters very tense; also affairs in the business world: be sure that the annoyances at home do not unnerve you and therefore lessen your efficiency abroad, to the point where you incur the displeasure of your superiors. Those in authority cannot be expected to do much for you now; don't seek favors or advancement. Money worries beset you; there seem to be incalculable expenses at home that deplete your bank account and make you fearful for the future. But this is a transient influence only, and will clear up; in the meantime, avoid nervousness and the attendant tendency to spend money merely to relax—you may relax for the moment, but this won't make up for the moments of remorse later when you're worried about the exchequer. Friends still support you well, contributing a note of cheer and optimism to a somewhat trying week.

January 19 to January 28

Despite irritation in domestic and financial fields, this week offers a better opportunity for progress than the three just passed through; still, this is not an unmitigated blessing. Your superiors are still crochety; yet it seems that now, despite their cantankerousness, they do something to advance your fortunes, so that you see financial daylight ahead. This is, as has been said, not a totally, one-hundred-percent benefit: there is still danger that through nervousness and irritability, you will antagonize those who can help you, or that through excess optimism you will expect a whole lot more than is in store for you. Still, by exercising self-control in all matters of speech, action, and writing, you may be put in the way of increasing your income, though probably the increase will not be so large as you are led to believe. You should not believe everything you hear, in a business way, this week, by any means—at least, whatever you hear, don't believe more than about a third of it. There is a tendency to exaggerate, and your friends, with the best intentions in the world, may paint a rosier picture for you than you have a right to count on. Try to avoid domestic and financial worries, and to concentrate solely on your business and professional life, working off your nervous energies in the outer world. Curb expenditures—this is the best way to make your income appear larger, and sufficient to your needs!

PISCES—Daily Guide

Jan. 1—Commencing 4.20 a. m. ruler Venus. Private and domestic matters troublesome; avoid dealing with other people—they are hard to manage today. Keep your own counsel.

Jan. 2—Commencing 5.41 a. m. ruler Pluto. Restrictive day, with petty annoyances at work. Don't mix romance and business.

Jan. 3—Commencing 6.45 a. m. ruler Pluto. You are optimistic and cheerful; straighten out personal matters.

Jan. 4—Commencing 7.57 a. m. ruler Jupiter. Enthusiastic, perhaps quarrelsome, friends, make this an expensive day. Social matters costly, and not worth it.

Jan. 5—Commencing 8.43 a. m. ruler Jupiter. A private business matter comes to your attention; sane judgment advances this.

Jan. 6—Commencing 9.15 a. m. ruler Saturn. Your bosses are on the warpath, whether at home or abroad. Lie low!

Jan. 7—Commencing 9.39 a. m. ruler Saturn. Depressed over money matters—cut down the expenses. Good day to budget yourself.

Jan. 8—Commencing 9.58 a. m. ruler Uranus. You are energetic but confused by the failure of things to materialize. You get private counsel that isn't worth much.

Jan. 9—Commencing 10.15 a. m. ruler Uranus. A superior seems, kindly disposed today—a ray of light in the dark. Accept this for what it is worth.

Jan. 10—Commencing 10.30 a. m. ruler Neptune. Loss through an associate; avoid quarrels. Conflicting advices annoy you.

Jan. 11—Commencing 10.45 a. m. ruler Neptune. Trouble among your friends, which may be costly, to you. Avoid other people's business.

Jan. 12—Commencing 11.04 a. m. ruler Mars. Social and business matters get involved with each other, to the benefit of neither. Pay no attention to gossip.

Jan. 13—Commencing 11.25 a. m. ruler Mars. Sunday is costly—a partner goes on a rampage. But something boosts your stock.

Jan. 14—Commencing 11.53 a. m. ruler Mars. You are nervous, irritable, depressed: things go all wrong. Lie low and relax.

Jan. 15—Commencing 12.29 p. m., ruler Venus. Your superiors will like the work you do today, if you work without talking about it. It may look like drudgery, but it's helping!

Jan. 16—Commencing 1.17 p. m. ruler Venus. A powerful superior says a good word for you, in private; but you'll have to take this on faith for a while—the results develop slowly.

Jan. 17—Commencing 2.15 p. m. ruler Mercury. Social and personal matters active, upset, and quarrelsome. Keep your temper.

Jan. 18—Commencing 3.22 p. m. ruler Mercury. Keep to yourself; those around you are hard to handle. Avoid quarrels with friends.

Jan. 19—Commencing 4.32 p. m. ruler Moon. Negative and unreliable day; your optimism is too high—curb it. Home upset.

Jan. 20—Commencing 5.43 p. m. ruler Moon. Associates spend your money. Don't believe a word you hear today. Gossip rampant!

Jan. 21—Commencing 6.53 p. m. ruler Moon. You are depressed, and worried about business, but you can get a lot done if you plug along. Guard speech and writings, and work.

Jan. 22—Commencing 8.03 p. m. ruler Sun. Partners active in your behalf, but their ideas are a little grandiose. Bring their schemes down to earth, and you can use them.

Jan. 23—Commencing 9.12 p. m. ruler Sun. Catch up on details, clean out your desk, empty the waste basket, and fool that dour partner by keeping out of his way.

Jan. 24—Commencing 10.19 p. m. ruler Mercury. Enthusiastic matters of employment make this a pleasant day. Fun at work.

Jan. 25—Commencing 9 a. m. ruler Mercury. Your interests are being advanced for you by someone in your employment environment; you have a loyal servant or subordinate.

Jan. 26—Commencing 11.30 p. m. January 25. Ruler Mercury. Curb your energy, or it will get you into trouble; also your expenses.

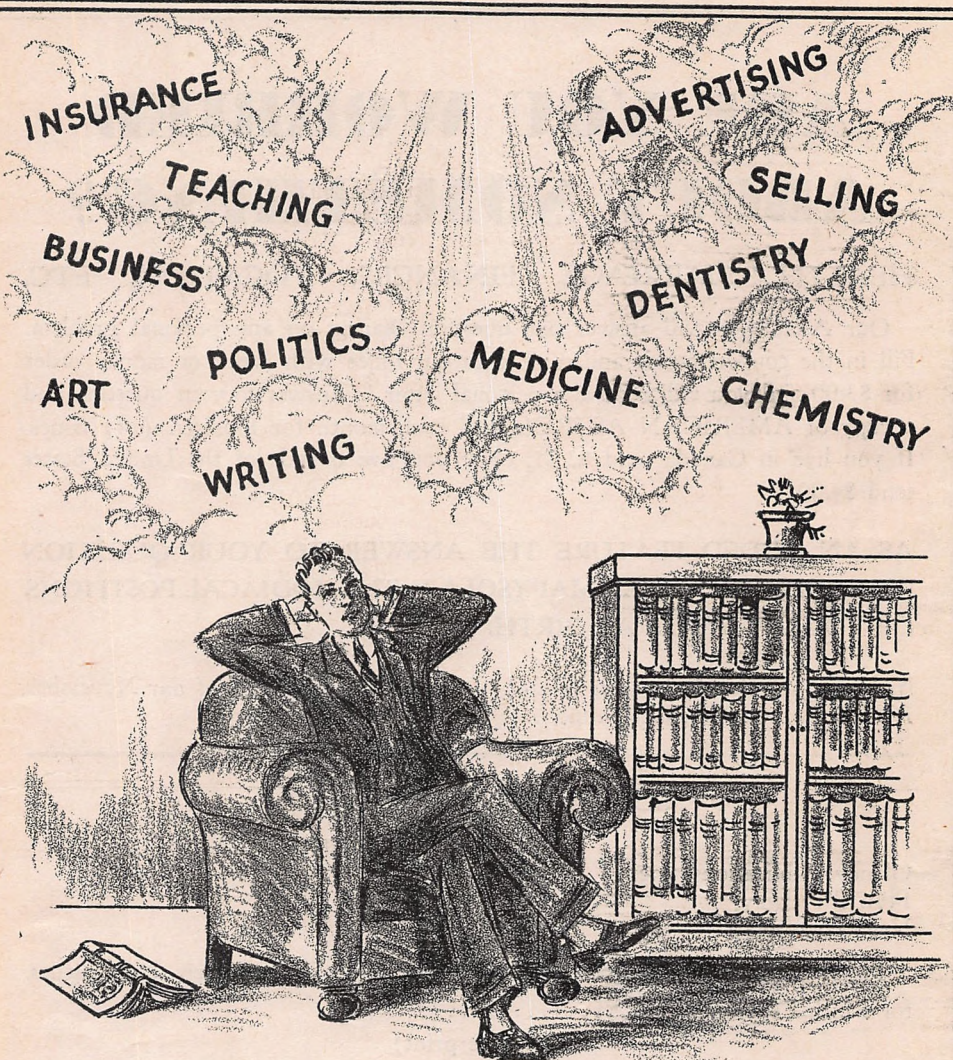

Jan. 27—Commencing 12.42 a. m. ruler Mercury. Worried, and nervous, you feel restricted in business. Later hours active socially.

Jan. 28—Commencing 1.59 a. m. ruler Venus. The week starts out with a bang or energy and a cheer of enthusiasm.

Jan. 29—Commencing 3.16 a. m. ruler Venus. Glittering schemes are more glittering than realistic. Keep your head.

Jan. 30—Commencing 4.32 a. m. ruler Pluto. Active day; wind up old matters, plan ahead. Home matters very pleasant.

Jan. 31—Commencing 5.38 a. m. ruler Pluto. You are optimistic and cheerful, and have plenty of energy. Active purposeful day; go ahead with your ideas; you gain privately through them.

*A*STROLOGY teaches that there is hope for the worst criminal that ever lived and danger for the greatest saint; there are weak points and strong points in all charts. "To know all is to forgive all"—hence Astrologers are above all CHARITABLE.

He who has the horoscope of another person before him (and understands these symbols) is standing upon sacred ground—for he has another soul laid bare—from him the person has no secrets and great is the condemnation for him who gazes thereon with profane eyes.

He who quickly condemns another for what he may find in his horoscope is not worthy of the name of "ASTROLOGER."
